ANOTHER FIERCE BATTLE.

Gen. Shields' Advance Attacked by Jackson on Monday Morning.

Desperate Fight for the Possession of the Port Republic Bridge.

Our Advance Forced to Retreat on the Main Body.

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES.

JACKSON AGAIN IN FULL RETREAT.

The Port Republic Bridge Destroyed by Him.

HIS PROBABLE INTENTIONS.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

Advices received at the War Department state that JACKSON's army attacked Gen. SHIELDS' advance on Monday morning near Port Republic. The conflict is said to have been maintained for four hours by about 2,000 of our men against the main body of Gen. JACKSON's army. The enemy's force became so overwhelming in numbers that our advance was compelled to fall back, which it did in good order until it met the main body of Gen. SHIELDS' command near CONRAD's store. As soon as this was effected the enemy to turn retired. The fighting is said to have been very severe, and the loss heavy on both sides. No further particulars have reached the Department.

A private letter states that Gen. SHIELDS had previously succeeded in destroying a large quantity of supplies belonging to the rebels, found at Milford and at CONRAD's store.

The damage of the recent rains, including the carrying away of bridges over the south branch of the Shenandoah River, materially interfered with the Commissariat arrangements and the movements of troops.

LURAY, Tuesday, June 10, via WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

Col. CARROLL, commanding the Fourth Brigade, consisting of the Eighty-fourth Pennsylvania, Eleventh Pennsylvania, the Seventh Indiana, and First Virginia, altogether about 1,600 strong, reached Port Republic on Sunday, reconnoitred, found the enemy in town, and had a skirmish. He concluded to hold the bridge, and ordered it not to be burned, and put guns in position commanding it. At 6 A. M., Monday, he was opened on by some twenty heavy guns placed in position during the night. Our forces tried to reach the bridge, repeatedly, to destroy it, but were met by storms of bullets and had to retire. A large cavalry force crossed and attacked our troops, while their infantry followed, our men opposing them at every step, often driving them back with heavy loss; but the numbers, after Gen. TYLER's Brigade arrived, were so much inferior to the enemy—theirs being at least five to one—that it was impossible to hold our position, and we were compelled to fall back, our boys fighting every foot of the way. After falling back some three or four miles, a body of cavalry was sent to attack us, but they were received in such manner as to compel them to retire, when the engagement ended, having lasted five hours. Our loss in killed and wounded is not known; but it is large, as is also that of the enemy.

We lost a large number of prisoners.

Col. CARROLL's horse fell, injuring the Colonel badly.

Capt. REILY, of Gen. SHIELDS' Staff, was badly injured in the head. He received praise from all who saw him fighting.

Col. BUCKLEY, of the Twenty-ninth Ohio, was badly wounded. His men charged three times to get his body, but it was carried off by the enemy.

Gen. ASHBY, of cavalry notoriety, was positively killed during the fight at the bridge over Middle River.

Capt. KEOUN charged with a body of cavalry, and held the bridge some time during a perfect storm of grape.

This was one of the most hotly contested engagements of the whole war, as indicated by the loss compared with the numbers engaged. The men fought like demons.

LATER.—Two regiments from the First Brigade arrived in time to assist in covering the retreat. The Pioneer Corps also helped.

Col. BUCKLEY has arrived, wounded.

RUMORED MOVEMENTS OF JACKSON.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

This evening's Star has the following:

"We have information that after his battle with FREMONT on the 8th inst., JACKSON made a sudden dash at SHIELDS' advance, which was hurrying up from the direction of Luray to FREMONT's assistance. He worsted SHIELDS' advance somewhat in that affair. He then immediately resumed his retreat, quitting the road to Staunton, and burning the Port Republic bridge in his rear; thus, for the time being, putting an effectual stop to pursuit of him, it is highly probable. He is evidently retreating immediately on Charlottesville. What his next move will be it is hard indeed to tell If he anticipates that FREMONT will follow him, he will probably make a stand at Charlottesville, to save the Lynchburgh and Tennessee Railroad connection made there; or he may bounce off to Richmond, where the presence of his force would doubtless be hailed with delight by the besieged rebel army and capital; or, again, he may strike for the vicinity of Fredericksburgh, in the hope of hanging on and annoying the flank of any Union force that may make for Richmond from that quarter.

JOE JOHNSTON ON BANKS' RETREAT.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT NORTHERN VIRGINIA, Thursday, May 29, 1862.

The commanding General has the proud satisfaction of announcing to the army another brilliant success, won by the skill and courage of our Generals and troops in the valley. The combined divisions of Maj.-Gens. JACKSON and EWELL, constituting a portion of this army, and commanded by the former, attacked and routed the Federal forces under Maj.-Gen. BANKS successively at Front Royal, Middletown and Winchester, capturing several thousand prisoners and an immense quantity of ammunition and stores of all descriptions.

The Federal army has been dispersed and ignominiously driven from the valley of the Shenandoah, and those who have freed the loyal citizens of that district by their patriotic valor have again earned, as they will receive, the thanks of a grateful country.

In making this glorious announcement on the eve of the memorable struggle about to ensue, the Commanding General does not deem it necessary to invoke the troops of this army to emulate the deeds of their noble comrades in the valley. He feels already assured of their determined purpose to make illustrious in history the part they are soon to act in the impending drama. By command of

GEN. JOHNSTON.

THOS. G. RHETT, A. A. G.

FROM GEN. BANKS' ARMY.

WINCHESTER, Sunday, June 8.

Four hundred and five rebel prisoners arrived here to-day from Strasburgh, and have been quartered temporarily in the basements of the churches. Most of them are stated to have been stragglers overtaken by Gen. FREMONT's army, during his pursuit of JACKSON up the valley.

Returned prisoners say that JACKSON was attacked in force at Woodstock by FREMONT, losing one battery and a considerable number of killed, wounded, and some prisoners.

Among the prisoners now here is Capt. WILLIAM MONAGHEN, of the Sixth Louisiana Volunteers, acting Major of that regiment. He was captured near Strasburgh by the Delaware Cavalry.

Gen. COOPER's brigade was reviewed and inspected yesterday by Gen. SIGEL. This is a large brigade recently formed at Harper's Ferry, and includes the First District of Columbia Regiment. The review was a very creditable one.

The men now in hospital here are as follows: At the Union Hospital, 163 Federals; at the York Hospital, 17 Federals and 67 rebels; at the Academy Hospital, 30 Federals and 60 rebels; at Strasburgh, 65.

A rumor was circulated here this morning that JACKSON had been strongly reinforced, and was advancing down the valley again. It could not be traced to any authentic source.

Not the slightest demonstration was made on the part of the citizens to-day when the prisoners entered the town.

A proclamation has been issued, a copy of which will be placed in every house in town, ordering the inhabitants to return every article in their possession belonging to the Government. It is known that a large amount of arms, clothing and provisions, have been taken and concealed by them. If this order is not obeyed, strict search of every suspected house, and severe examples of delinquents, will follow.

ANOTHER BATTLE AND VICTORY.

Defeat of the Rebels at Chattanooga by Gen. Mitchel, after a Two Days' Fight.

CHICAGO, Wednesday, June 11.

A private dispatch from Cairo to the President of the Chicago Sanitary Commission, says that Gen. MITCHEL has won another brilliant victory at Chattanooga, Tenn., the enemy being completely routed, after two days' hard fighting.

No further particulars are given.

DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Apprehensions of an Attack upon Washington by the Rebels.

From Our Special Correspondent.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, June 4, 1862.

There is a great scare at Washington, N. C. Signs of an attack by Secesh Cavalry appeared there on the 2d, at midnight, when the Captain of the cavalry company came in and reported rebel cavalry outside the town. Boats were also seen landing troops near Pactolus, when our released prisoners came down the Tar River. Col. POTTER accordingly sent to Gen. BURNSIDE for reinforcements, last night, and he has sent up by the Pilot Boy; three companies of the Massachusetts Twenty-fourth, and part of the Thirteenth Massachusetts go up this morning. The only force now holding Washington, is a company of the VAN ALEN Cavalry, under Capt. JOCKNICK, and three companies of the Massachusetts Twenty-fourth, under Col. POTTER. The United States gunboat Louisiana, Capt. RENSHAW, is anchored off the town. I do not believe that those good Union men about Washington contemplate any mischief, it is so contrary to their uniformly peaceable disposition; but I deem it best to be there to see, and shall leave immediately by the army gunboat Sentinel. The Missouri State Convention.

JEFFERSON CITY, Tuesday, June 10.

In the Convention to-day the bill defining the qualifications of voters was passed, by a vote of 42 yeas to 27 nays.

The first section of this bill prevents all persons who have been engaged in the rebellion, since the 17th of December last, from voting at any State election hereafter. The second section provides that before any person shall be selected or appointed to office, he shall take an oath that he has not during the present rebellion willfully taken up arms or levied war against the United States, nor against the Provisional Government of Missouri, nor adhered to the enemies of either. The third section prescribes the penalty for falsely taking the oath. The fourth section contains an oath of allegiance, which is required to be taken by the President and Professors and Curators of the University of Missouri; by all bank officers; by the common school teachers who are paid by public money; by School Trustees; by officers of incorporated companies and licensed or ordained preachers, before performing the ceremony of marriage. The penalty for not complying is a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $200, to take effect in ninety days. The fifth section requires Judges and clerks of elections to swear they will not receive nor record votes from persons who have not taken the oath. The sixth section authorizes the Legislature to repeal or modify, when expedient.

The ordinance continuing the present Governor, Secretary of State and Treasurer in office was taken up, which elicited a spirited discussion, a substitute being offered to continue the whole Provisional Government, and postpone all elections till the next regular Gubernatorial election; and an amendment being proposed authorizing the Governor to order an election, if he thought the welfare of the State required it, before 1864, but without coming to a vote the Convention adjourned.

FROM GEN. M'CLELLAN'S ARMY.

Reports from the Shenandoah Valley in the Richmond Papers.

The Death of Ashby Confirmed.

THE WEATHER STILL UNPROPITIOUS.

HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, June 11.

The Richmond papers of Monday have an account of a skirmish near Harrisonburgh, in which Col. ASHBY, of the rebel cavalry was killed. Col. WYNDHAM, of the First New-Jersey Cavalry, was taken prisoner. On Saturday, Gen. JACKSON was at Port Republic, in Rockingham County, from which he would retreat when pressed by the National troops.

The same papers publish the names of the killed and wounded in seven rebel regiments, making a total of 559.

The weather still continues unfavorable for military operations. It has rained every other day for the past two weeks. The waters in the Chickahominy have not receded, and the roads are in a terrible condition.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE FROM THE ADVANCE.

Gen. Casey's Division in the Late Battle—The True Statement of their Case—Why They Were in Front—How They Fought.

CAMP BEFORE RICHMOND, Monday, June 9, 1862.

I send with this a copy of the official report of the killed and wounded in Gen. CASEY's Division. [See 2d page.] I guarantee nothing but the exactness of the copy. As a list of killed and wounded I do not vouch for its entire correctness, though it is the most so of any yet published, and as near perfect accuracy as it is possible to obtain. Some of the names will will doubtless be found wrong, and the innocent printer visited with unjust censure, when he is, in fact, the victim of circumstances. Dr. CROSBY, Medical Director of the division, has taken the pains to make the report as complete as possible, but there have been difficulties in the way, which, with all his efficiency, he has been unable fully to overcome. The experience and intelligence of the doctor are not a measure of the capacity of all of his regimental Surgeons, and even were they his equals in efficiency, they could hardly be depended upon for lists of the killed, which they are obliged to obtain at second-hand; and the difficulty of securing the names of the wounded were not slight, as they were sent off by rail immediately upon being attended to, and memorada taking in the midst of the exhausting labor of three days' attention to the wounded, with scarcely any interval for rest, cannot be expected to be complete. Dr. CROSBY instructed his assistants to revise their reports by those of the Regimental Adjutants, and by personal inquiry in the different companies, to bring them as near completeness as possible.

This list of over 1,100 killed and wounded tells the story of where CASEY's Division was on the day of the battle of Fair Oaks. As he had, in fact, less than 5,000 men actually in the fight, this list shows a percentage of over one-fifth of his command injured, not to speak of many others who suffer from contusions and slight wounds not bringing them under the surgeons care. I know that a large list of casualties is not always proof of desperate fighting, but there is other evidence to prove that Gen. MCCLELLAN's dispatch of June 1 was cruelly unjust to brave men made the victims of untoward circumstances. This I find to be the impression here, so far as I learn it, and the proof of the fact is such that the Commander-in-Chief has modified his views, though not yet, perhaps, making public acknowledgment of the fact.

The simple truth is, Gen. MCCLELLAN has repeated the mistake he made at Williamsburgh in giving to the country a hasty dispatch, based upon partial and biased statements, before he had time to inform himself of the real facts of the case. In neither case was injustice intended, but it is our General's misfortune to be too ready to believe what comes to him from "official sources." Had he the experience of an army correspondent, he would have learned that the ex parte statement of one General in regard to another was not a thing to swear by, or to base a report upon which should make or mar the public reputation of men who were periling life and limb in a cause as dear to them as to him. He should not forget that his lightest word of disapprobation has the force of national censure, and it should never be given hastily or carelessly. He was not on the ground that day, he never saw or heard from Gen. CASEY in regard to his division, and depended for his impression of its conduct principally upon the statements of those whom a rigid investigation might prove to have been themselves the chief sinners in this affair.

The inquiry is very general as to how the weakest division in the army should happen to be thrown so far in advance. The explanation is simple. In consequence of following up some spirited reconnoissance, conducted by Gen. H. M. NAGLEE, in a manner giving great satisfaction at headquarters, Gen. CASEY's Division was thrown forward in the advance of Gen. KEYES' corps, to within some two and one-half miles of their position on the 31st. Here Gen. KEYES proposed that Gen. CASEY remain, but he was ordered a mile or more in advance, where he halted and has commenced to fortify his position, when, contrary to his judgment, he was ordered to move forward to his last camping ground, which placed him entirely beyond the other portions of the left wing of the army, and in front of the abattis already constructed, which proved a source of great embarrassment on the day of the battle, compelling the troops to retire down a narrow road in face of a heavy fire.

The exposed position of the division was a constant subject of remark among its officers, as I know by personal intercourse with them during the time of their occupation of the position. It was evident that, exposed as it was, the division lived only by the sufferance of its enemies and a vigorous attack upon all sides, which their situation invited, must subject them to the danger of annihilation. The matter was understood by Gen. KEYES, and represented to Gen. HEINTZELMAN, in command of the left wing. But the only effect the representation seems to have had there was to excite the merriment of Gen. HEINTZELMAN's Adjutant, who waxed exceedingly jocose at the idea that Gen. KEYES could for a moment suppose that the enemy were in any force in front of him. Perhaps they were not; but where did that sixty or seventy thousand men come from on the day of the battle of Fair Oaks?

I have already given you a report of the conduct of CASEY's Division in that affair, based upon personal observation. I verify the correctness of that account with the following statement, which I give on the authority of a participant in the engagement, and to the correctness of which Gen. CASEY himself would be willing to testify.

On the morning of the 31st May, the day of the battle of Fair Oaks, Gen. CASEY's pickets captured Lieut. J. BARNOLL WASHINGTON, an aide-de-camp of Gen. JOHNSTON. This occurrence, considered in connection with the report of the general officer of the day, that the cars had been running all the night of the 30th May, on the Richmond end of the railroad, led the General to exercise the utmost vigilance. At 11 o'clock on the 31st May, a vidette brought report from the pickets that the enemy had shown himself in force. The division was immediately ordered under arms, the artillery (22 pieces) directed to be harnessed, and the disposition for battle at once made. The report that the division was surprised is a mistake; there was ample time to make all needful dispositions before the enemy advanced to the attack of the centre and the wings. With his first line Gen. CASEY fought the enemy until he was flanked by overwhelming numbers, when he retired to the second line, where the fight was continued until he was again flanked, and in danger of being surrounded. Then, and not till then, did his troops retire to the line of Gen. COUCH, about one-half to three-fourths of a mile to the rear. Thus, for from two and one-half to three hours, with a force of less than five thousand, (who were not reinforced by a single man,) Gen. CASEY withstood the furious onset of at least forty thousand rebels, the flower of the Southern army. That, after a desperate resistance, his division retired before overwhelming numbers, is true. That it retired discreditably is not true, for they left a third of their little number on the battle-field, killed, wounded and missing. The dead bodies of the rebels strewing the field in front of Gen. CASEY's position, are silent witnesses of the honorable resistance of his division.

If it is so unaccountable that Gen. CASEY fell back before the overwhelming force that attacked him, how are we to account for the fact that Gen. COUCH's Division and Gen. KEARNEY's troops were obliged to do the same, and that it was not until the next day that our troops advanced beyond the third line of defences to which they had been forced back? It is true that some of Gen. CASEY's troops are the proper subjects of censure, though much may be excused to raw troops, contending with great odds; but it is not just that those who so long endured the burden and heat of that day, should have public dishonor added to the bitterness of their defeat. Is this the reward of brave men who are to go maimed and halting through life? Is such to be the legacy of the dead to those who survive them?

Private feeling, it is true, should not be weighed against the public interest; but let us have a care lest this suffer from the unjust treatment of those whose misfortune is misjudged as crime. Gen. CASEY's Division should not be made a scapegoat for military blunders the responsibility for which rests elsewhere, nor should they be suffered to lightly escape censure if guilty of the conduct charged against them. As it is, Gen. MCCLELLAN's dispatch has nearly used up what was left of the Division. Gen. NAGLEE has retired from the command of the First Brigade until the matter is corrected, and many officers are proposing to resign unless they are to receive what they conceive to be justice. PIERREPONT.

P. S.—The official report, it will be noticed, contains but few names of the missing, who in one Brigade amount to over 250 men; of the others, I have no information. Some of these are no doubt among the stragglers, but many are probably prisoners, and perhaps wounded. P.

The Battle at Fair Oaks—Want of Surgeons—Wants to See Richmond.

GAINES' HILL, NEAR NEW-BRIDGE, Sunday, June 8, 1862.

The details of the great battle at Fair Oaks have almost absorbed the interest of the entire command. As everybody in this wing of the army has some friends or acquaintances in the corps that participated, a full official account of the casualties would be doubly interesting. If we saw any signs of a speedy advance, our thoughts would be turned more immediately upon a coming engagement; but as every circumstance points to some delay before our victorious columns enter the rebel city, the battle of the past engrosses all our attention.

Dr. FREDERICK G. SNELLING, formerly Assistant Surgeon in First Regiment United States Sharpshooters, Col. BERDAN, has been appointed Brigade Surgeon, and assigned to Gen. MARTINDALE's Brigade. This brigade has been a very long time without a Brigade Surgeon, and, indeed, the whole army suffers for want of a greater number of Surgeons. I have not heard that these volunteer Surgeons have been of much service here. They, doubtless, would be if the wounded were sent home and attended to there; but in the field it appears to be otherwise.

An old gentleman, a farmer in Genesee County, New-York, made his appearance in camp this morning. He lives near Batavia, is the proprietor of quite a large farm, and one would suppose from his name was descended from one of the oldest families of Greece. Farmer PLATO was anxious to see our army enter Richmond, and for that purpose received permission from that patriotic but eccentric Secretary who runs the War Department at Washington. He called on Gen. MARTINDALE this morning, and seemed much surprised that there was no tavern around where he might put up. He realizes now why MCCLELLAN don't "go ahead," and although anxious enough to see Richmond, is willing to let the General have his own time, because he knows more about "training" than anybody else.

IMPORTANT FROM CORINTH.

Gen. Buell, with 60,000 Troops in Hot Pursuit of the Enemy.

Other Movements of the National Forces.

ST. LOUIS, Wednesday, June 11.

A gentleman just from Corinth, who is conversant with matters there, says that Gen. BUELL with 60,000 troops, embracing two divisions of his own aid, all of Gen POPE's forces, were at Guntown in hot pursuit of Bishop POLK's rebels.

Gen. W. T. SHERMAN's Division is repairing the bridge on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, between Corinth and Grand Junction.

Gen. WOOD's Division, of BUELL's corps, is repairing the bridges on Big Bear Creek, 26 miles east of Corinth.

Gen. THOMAS, with about 6,000 troops, is at Corinth, renovating the town, so that it may be used as a habitation for troops.

Gens. MCCLERNAND and WALLACE are at Purdy, with about 26,009 troops.

The railroad from Corinth to Jackson, thence to Grand Junction, is being rapidly repaired, and communication is expected to be opened with Columbus, Ky., in a day or two, affording an important and speedy route for transportation of supplies.

Eleven locomotives have been captured at different points, four of which are in running order, and the balance are being rapidly repaired.

The rebel gunboat General Bragg, captured in the late battle, arrived here to-day. She will be repaired immediately.

There have been no arrivals from Memphis to-day.

THE NAVAL FIGHT BEFORE MEMPHIS.

REBEL ACCOUNT OF THE ENGAGEMENT.

The following is the rebel account of the great naval battle before Memphis, an abstract of which has already been published. It is given in the Memphis Argus, of June 6:

"As was generally anticipated, several gunboats of the Lincoln fleet made their appearance around the bend above the city this A. M., arriving below the island a little before 6 o'clock. Their appearance created an immediate movement in our fleet, under the brave Commodore MONTGOMERY, who had been awaiting them, and his boats were at once headed up stream to offer them battle. Our fleet was composed of the Gen. Van Dorn, flag-ship, Gen. Price, Gen. Bragg, Jeff. Thompson, Gen. Lovell, Gen. Beauregard, Sumter and Little Rebel, all rams, under the supreme command of Commander MONTGOMERY. Upon arriving opposite the mouth of Wolf Creek, the Federal boats in the meantime advancing from the Island, the order was given to open fire, which was accordingly done by the Little Rebel. Three shots were fired from the Confederate fleet before any reply was made by the enemy, who, however, continued advancing. A short time afterward fire was opened by the advancing boats of the Federal fleet, and a brisk interchange of cannonading was kept up for some time, the shots from both sides generally falling wide of the mark. Up to this time no damage had been done. The engagement had then continued probably twenty minutes.

Several more of the enemy's gunboats now came in sight. Aware that upon their arrival, which would give the enemy great superiority, he could not continue the engagement at this point with any hope of success, Commodore MONTGOMERY, who was using the Little Rebel as his flag vessel, ordered the fleet to fall back. The order was reluctantly obeyed, the firing, however, being kept up vigorously.

Our fleet retired to opposite Beal-street, no longer in line of battle, when one of the Federal rams shot ahead of the remainder of the fleet in pursuit. Upon reaching the vicinity of our fleet, preparations were made to receive her. The Beauregard at once prepared to strike, and they both bore down on each other in gallant style. The contest was of short duration, as the Beauregard, avoiding the blow intended for her, struck her adversary forward of her wheel-house. The blow placed the Federal adventurer hors du combat, and she hauled off and made for the Arkansas shore, where she remained during the rest of the engagement.

In the meantime another Federal ram, the Monarch, started to the first's assistance, rapidly passing the city under full head of steam. The Beauregard, having disabled her first adversary, turned about to run into the Monarch. The Price was also moved up, and the three boats were rapidly coming together.

A heavy blow aimed by the Beauregard at the Monarch missed and struck the Price, which was unable to get out of the way. She was struck squarely on the wheel-house, which was torn completely off, leaving the boat nearly a wreck. She at once made for the Arkansas shore, and sunk as deeply as the shallow water would allow. A number of persons on board were killed and wounded by the enemy's sharpshooters.

Just at this period the four iron-clad gunboats of the enemy, none of which had yet taken any other part in the engagement than firing at long range as they slowly advanced, moved down for the scene of the action. The cannonnading on their arrival was fiercely renewed, and in a short time the Gen. Lovell was pierced by a large shot, which caused her to fill rapidly and settle down. We had by this time lost two boats, and the fighting was at close quarters.

The Little Rebel, which was all the time in the thickest of the fight, was soon afterwards struck by one of the Federal shots, and she at once started for the Arkansas side, and stopped near the Gen. Price.

Com. MONTGOMERY and a majority of the officers and men escaped.

The Beauregard, nothing daunted by the disaster which had befallen the others, still continued vigorously firing. As she retired toward the point two or three of the enemy's large boats closed in on her, pouring in broadside after broadside. She was struck several times by shot which raked her fore and aft. A Federal ram also coming up dealt her a blow and she commenced sinking rapidly in deep water opposite Jackson Mound. A Federal tug was sent to her assistance, in which the officers and men were conveyed to the Arkansas shore as prisoners of war.

The remaining Confederate boats, the Jeff. Thompson, Van Dorn, Sumter and Bragg, now rapidly moved down the river, aware that their only hope of safety, after the loss of the other four and the arrival of the remainder of the Lincoln fleet, was in further continuing to retreat; they soon rounded the point, and from Memphis could no longer be seen. But our reporter, who witnessed their movements from the Mound, observed one of them—which one could not be ascertained—run rapidly to the Arkansas shore. Reaching it, she paused, and a moment afterwards flames were discovered issuing from her upper deck. She had evidently been permanently disabled by the enemy's fire, and abandoned and fired by her officers and crew.

The pursuit still continued to the foot of President's Island as far as the eye could reach, the gunboats rapidly firing as they went, a shot occasionally being returned from our fleet.

In a short time two of the Federal iron-clad boats were observed steaming back, accompanied by the Monarch. The conclusion arrived at was that the remainder of our fleet had met the fate of the others.

The loss of life in this engagement cannot yet be estimated with any degree of accuracy. The cannonading, we presume, killed few, but a number are known to have fallen by the enemy's sharpshooters. Whenever the contending boats came together, rapid reports of guns and pistols could be distinctly heard from the shore. It is supposed that quite a number went down with the sinking vessels.

The loss of the enemy, other than the damage to the ram, has not been ascertained. His boats were altogether superior to ours in every respect, and therefore sustained small loss, save in hand-to-hand encounters.

Among those known to be killed in our fleet was Capt. WM. CAHILL, of the Gen. Lovell, on old Mississippi River steamb at man, and as brave and true a man as ever trod a deck.

Quite a number escaped from the Gen. Lovell by swimming ashore, arriving at Point Pickering nearly drowned and exhausted.

During the entire engagement, several of the enemy's transports, laden with United States flags and blue jackets, were lying at Mound City, waiting until the termination of the fight.

A number of mortarboats, which had taken no part in the action, were anchored on the Arkansas side.

Thus closed the most hotly contested engagement ever fought on the Mississippi River. Though fighting against overwhelming odds, the officers and crews of our fleet fought with a heroism and determination worthy of the highest commendation. Had such bravery and spirit been shown by our naval commanders before the fall of Madrid, the Mississippi River would not to-day be lost to the Confederacy.

The bluffs in front of the city were crowded with spectators, many of whom never witnessed anything of the kind before. Many ladies were seen with the tears trickling down their cheeks, humiliated at the triumph of the Federal boats.

All the stores, with few exceptions, were closed, business of every kind being suspended. Not less than 5,000 persons were on the wharf.

The train which left on the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad was jammed and crammed by our citizens, many of whom had remained until the last opportunity to get away.

One 64-pounder shot from a Federal gunboat struck the residence of N. CAROLINE, Esq., South Memphis—passed through the chimney, knocking it down and completely covering a little boy lying in bed, with the bricks. Strange to say, the boy received no injury. A shot struck the city ice-house, doing no very serious damage. One large shell fell near a crowd on the bluff in front of the Gayoso. No damage was done."

From the Memphis Avalanche, June 6.

The Federal fleet now in front of the City is quite numerous, and consists as follows: Gunboat Benton, flagship of Commodore DAVIS, Capt. PHELPS commanding; she mounts 14 guns. Gunboat St. Louis, Capt. MCGONIGLE, 13 guns; gunboat Mound City, Capt. A. W. KELLY, 13 guns; gunboat Louisville, Capt. BOYD, 13 guns; gunboat Cairo, Capt. ——, 13 guns; gunboat Carondelet, Capt. WALKE, 13 guns; 3 mortarboats and 20 rams and transports, including the Monarch, Queen of the West, Lancaster No. 2, John H. Dickey, Henry Von Phul, Chessman, and others.

The loss of men on our fleet was undoubtedly destructive, but we have no means of finding out the number of the names of these brave and gallant men. It is reported that the Federals lost only one man, and took about one hundred prisoners.

The Confederate fleet was really in no condition to encounter such a formidable opposition. At best, they were only rams which had already been good service. The infantry, sharpshooters and artillerymen, who had acted so well when in the former engagement, had all been taken off, and sent to our army below, and the boats and guns were left to be managed by steamboatmen, who knew but little about shooting cannon.

All the rifles had been taken away, and the consequence was that our men in exposed places labored under disadvantages. But, notwithstanding all this, Col. MONTGOMERY preferred to fight and die gloriously rather than his fleet should play the ignoble part enacted by TATNALL with the Virginia. His determination against him may be deemed rash, if not foolhardy, but there are many who feel better to-day for the effort he so generously made to demonstrate the great fact that war means fighting—a proposition which many leaders, higher in command than MONTGOMERY, would do well to prove by.

During the afternoon Mayor PARK received a communication from Commodore DAVIS, announcing that he had placed the city under military authority, and that he would be pleased to have his cooperation. We subjoin the correspondence:

UNITED STATES FLAG-STEAMER BENTON, OFF MEMPHIS, June 6, 1862.

SIR: The undersigned, commanding the military and naval force in front of Memphis, have the honor to say to the Mayor of that city, that Col. FITCH, commanding the Indiana Brigade, will take military possession of the city immediately.

Col. FITCH will be happy to receive the cooperation of His Honor the Mayor and the city authorities, in maintaining peace and order, and to this end he will be pleased to confer with His Honor at the military headquarters at 9 o'clock this afternoon.

The undersigned have the honor to be, with high respect, your most obedient servants, C. H. DAVIS, Flag-Officer Commanding afloat. A. N. FITCH, Colonel Commanding Indiana Brigade.

To His Honor the Mayor of the City of Memphis.

REPLY.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, June 6, 1862.

To Flag-Officer C. H. Davis, and Col. C. N. Fitch:

GENERALS: Your communication is received, and I shall be happy to cooperate with the Colonel Commanding in providing measures maintaining peace and order in the city. JOHN PARK, Mayor.

Mayor PARK had a consultation with Col. FITCH, who last night detailed some three or four hundred soldiers as a police force to protect the peace of the city. It is understood that for some days to come a very large force will be detailed for duty day and night, the object being to prevent the least disorder.

We conclude our observations on the day with the simple remark, that the better class of our citizens demeaned themselves with the utmost propriety, and that if there was any demonstration other than that of opposition to the invaders, we did not hear of it.

CONDITION OF AFFAIRS AT MEMPHIS.

From the Avalanche of the 7th.

The Federals have reached and now possess Memphis. Six gunboats, of most excellent proof, frown upon it, and from its post-office floats the Federal flag, symbolic of their presence and present power.

The flagship of Com. DAVIS, the Benton, lies dark and threatening within fifty yards of the shore, and in close proximity floats her five scarce less powerful and destructive companions. Mortarboats are on the Arkansas side, with their massive engines of destruction; the Dickey, their commissary boat, and the Platte Valley, a transport, are moored at our wharf, and contain two Illinois regiments, the Forty-third and Forty-sixth, under the command of Col. FITCH; while afar off repose the "swift and stiff" rams of Col. ELLET.

As all outbreak or provocation to anger by our people, of such a force as this, were but a wanton irritation to destructive anger, or, as some will have it, would be a plausible excuse for it, we trust, indeed, we little doubt, that our citizens will be wary, calm and careful, attending to their civic avocations, if they choose to resume them, in such way as neither to provoke harsh measures or painful hauteurs.

The immediate command of the city itself will, we judge, devolve upon Col. FITCH, now acting as Brigadier-General. He is reported a brave and efficient soldier to the Government he serves. He has been, in the ante passé, a strong Breckinridge Democrat, and in private life bears the reputation of a man of high and sensitive honor.

In the exchange of one military rule for another, however different the merits of the respective central Governments which the officers serve, the municipal affairs of the city will be little effected; and the individual citizen in such case must be prudent to be wise, and in this juncture, he is most truly valorous who is discreet—"neither quick to give nor to take offence."

When men are agitated, the unthinking are foremost to the fray, to its continuance, to its creation, and the scum of the boiling pot will ever be uppermost. The Mayor and the present military commander of the city will, we trust, see to the rapid establishment of a sufficient and reliable Police, whose watchfulness may be needed to prevent all useless and dangerous ebullitions of feelings, as much to be deprecated by the civilians of Memphis as by those who are now its possessors.

WHO LIVES IN MEMPHIS?

From the Avalanche of the 7th.

The question which forms the caption of our article were much more easily answered if it were in the negative—who does not live in Memphis?

Many of of the strongest advocates of the Confederacy have left us, where their circumstances were such as to permit their leaving. Hundreds have left Memphis for more Southern localities, in advance of the approach of the Federal fleet; among these were many who, though indifferent to political revulsions, feared the coming Power, and among those were many of the best and most useful citizens of Memphis.

All soldiers or attaches of the Confederate army have left Memphis.

All the banking institutions, with Presidents, tellers, cashiers and accountants, have left Memphis, with a very few exceptions.

Our late ruler, the commander of the post, Col. ROSSER, than whom there is no more affable, gentlemanly, able or kind-hearted officer, has left Memphis. Col. MCKISICK, our late Provost-Marshal, who discharged the onerous and often unpleasing duties imposed upon him with so ardent a desire "to do right" as to have earned for himself the hearty commendations of a large majority of those ever having "to do" with him, has left Memphis.

Many of the best physicians of the city, of its most able, most admired men and women, have left Memphis.

Thee "Who lives in Memphis?" Its civilians. We use the word in contradistinction to politician as to soldier. The men with whom the duties and inclinations of domesticity have rendered business, home, and pursuits of literature or art, paramount to the more boisterous attraction of military distinction—men, civilian in taste as in occupation, form now the population of Memphis.

Not only is Memphis extra civilian in its population now, but also in its possessions. All arms, all munitions of war, the very sinews of war, (the banks,) all down to the last pound of commissary bacon, and the last pint of commissary flour, have been removed, and the leavings in civilian possessions themselves are also of the meagerest.

TRADE ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, June 10.

The Secretary of the Treasury telegraphs to the President of the Chamber of Commerce that shipments can be made to Memphis and New-Orleans as soon as the Mississippi River is cleared, subject to the regulations of the Commanders of the ports of destination.

Business Suspended at Richmond.

The late Richmond papers contain the following proclamation of Gov. LETCHER:

BY THE GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA—A PROCLAMATION.

To afford every facility in the power of the Executive to provide a proper force for the defence of the capital, and to enable those who are employed in business avocations to devote a portion of each day to necessary drill and discipline, I, JOHN LETCHER, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, do hereby proclaim that all the stores and other places of business in the city of Richmond, except such manufacturing establishments as are engaged in fulfilling contracts for this State or Confederate States, shall be closed on each day after the hour of 2 o'clock P. M.; and it is hereby ordered that the second-class militia shall be assembled daily, except on Sunday, on the Capitol-square, at the hour of 3 o'clock. The forces shall be under the command of a senior officer present, and be regularly drilled until sunset each day.

...Peace Rumors—Spanish and English Intervention—Vessels—Markets—Coffee—Sugar—New Import Duties—Good News—Buenos Ayres—The War Debt—Prisoners of War—United States Consul—Paraguay Canal—Entre Rios—Urquiza &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

MONTE VIDEO, South America, Tuesday, April 15, 1862.

This morning the Saintonge arrived, bringing the French mail from Buenos Ayres en route for Bordeaux, and I write you the latest news.

Monte Video may almost be called Uraguay, as Paris is called France. Here are the chief civil and military officers of the State, here are the markets and almost the only port, and police in the whole country. This city, therefore, may be spoken of as chiefly interested in all our national questions.

France and England have recently combined in renewing their old claim of $8,000,000, silver, for spoliations; but as we had by diplomacy reduced the claim to one half the demand, they offered to take the four millions at once, or if delayed they must have the original claim of eight. It was not paid at once. Their ultimatum was received, but action was delayed until their fixed time was passed, and we shall pay, when we can, the four millions.

There are now in this harbor five French men-of-war, with an aggregate of 84 guns, and five British men-of-war, with an aggregate of 89 guns. As I have written you before, there is but one war vessel belonging to the United States, and she carries three or four small howitzers!

Of United States merchant vessels now lying here, there are found these: J. C. Nichols, Harry Maybee, Volante, Czarina, W. H. Hazard, Richard Mitchel and John Kerr. Most of the vessels recently arrived here brought flour or lumber, the prices of which don't vary much from those of Buenos Ayres, which are now, on board, $8 ℔ bbl., and $40@$41 ℔ 1,000 feet. The war at home has banished from these ports Caroline rice; it is in demand, but there is none. Refined sugar is 21 rials silver ℔ arrobe, (25 lbs.)

This Government is making vigorous efforts to induce immigrants to come here from Europe. Some success has already attended these efforts, and there is a colony of Piedmontese that have greatly improved their circumstances by the immigration.

Within a few days a paper has been started in this city called the Reforma Pacifica. It is the old organ of the Opposition Party in Buenos Ayres, and is owned and superintended by that indomitable opponent of the dominant party, NICHOLAS CALVO. He has been repeatedly fined in Buenos Ayres, and finally his paper was suppressed, but here he sets up again, and will throw hot shot into that city, in no fear of visits from the police. If his paper should fall under the censure of that Government again, they will simply forbid its introduction by mail or otherwise.

Uraguay has enjoyed a good year. Our Summer is now closing. Crops of every kind have been good. The national debt has been redeemed, new stock farms have been opened up, some wealthy capitalists have invested here in preference to any of our neighboring countries, and we have passed another year from war and from serious internal strifes.

Across the river, our neighbors have been less fortunate. Buenos Ayres has put herself at the head of the Confederation, at an expense of $200,000,000 of their paper money, about $10,000,000 of silver dollars. The taxes of that country are placed heavily on imports, making all importations dear, and on exports, making all produce low-priced. Only a month ago a new tax of 2½ per cent. on exports was authorized in Buenos Ayres.

The province of Buenos Ayres recently demanded of Buenos Ayres the prisoners taken in the late war, and the request was promptly granted. These prisoners fared better as such than did their own soldiers, being paid both wages and rations. I saw them when they arrived, poor, ragged, dirty, half starved, and before long they were well clad and well fed, and apparently quite contented. On arriving they did not know but that they were to be summarily executed—a method once quite popular here for disposing of war prisoners.

The American bark Ophelia called here on her way to Buenos Ayres, with the new American Consul for that port, Mr. HELPER. He was 95 days out.

Entre Rios, the garden of Gen. URQUIZA, comes into the arrangement for a reconstruction of the Confederation with the docility of a lamb. The province is in debt 200,000 silver dollars, and the wherewithal does not appear. Gen. URQUIZA is still Governor, and probably always will be, for he owns in fee simple many hundreds of its square miles. If his land lay in body it would exceed the two States of Connecticut and Rhode Island, and it is vastly more fertile than those States. Every tract is well filled with cattle, horses and sheep.

President LOPEZ, of Paraguay, has lately issued a decree in very comical terms. He has been pleased to decree that for falsifying the coin of the country the punishment shall be ten years imprisonment, instead of death as before, "because that punishment for such an offence is not in accordance with the advancement of the age." For LOPEZ to preach humanity or progress!—what next?

The United States steamer Mississippi is doing a fine business between this port and Buenos Ayres. The route is 12 to 14 hours, the fare is eight silver dollars, and the patronage does not vary much from 100 passengers each way. Besides, the freight charges very nearly cover expenses. Is not that a good place for a steamer? More steamers, more enterprise, would only quicken trade. I hope to see these rivers as full of steamers and light craft as is the Hudson.

We wait with intense anxiety the result of the struggle at home. It occasions among our statesmen here high interest. It seriously affects the trade of these countries. United States vessels can obtain very little freight, and that only at nominal rates. Several United States vessels have been sold so as to change the flag for safety. Among these is the noble ship Parana, which changes owners and nationality, but not her name. She carries jerk beef on this voyage to Havana, and will return here with sugar. It is in this vessel that Hon. R. M. PALMER, the American Minister to the Confederation, has gone home viâ Havana. ADELANTE.

FESTIVALS OF THE CHURCH—THE IMPERIAL COURT—MERCANTILE MATTERS.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Friday, April 25, 1862.

A perfect dearth of news and stagnation of business has been the order of the last month, giving a chance to the people generally to exercise, to the fullest extent, the practices of the Church of Rome during Lent and Passion Week. Almost every day for the past month we have had processions of Our Lady of this visiting Our Lady of that. On Thursday and Friday evenings of last (Passion) week, all the churches were open and brilliantly illuminated, and thousands of people thronged to them, following the Emperor and Empress, who also visit on foot all the principal churches on those nights; the Palace was illuminated and thrown open to the public on those evenings, and every person decently dressed has the privilege of entry and viewing the imperial plate and treasures; this altogether had more the appearance of a grand gala than a strict fast.

The Imperial Court remove from their Summer residence at Petropolis next week, preparatory to the opening of Legislative Chambers, which are always inaugurated by the Emperor in person on the 3d of May. It is proposed, also, on that day to open the new American ferry to Prior Grande, but I doubt very much if it will be ready, as it has every appearance of not taking place before four or five months.

I see that the Directors of the Don Pedro Second Railroad have decided to encourage our American manufacturers, and have this day forwarded to Messrs. BALDWIN & Co., of Philadelphia, a large order for their celebrated locomotives, finding them far superior to those offered by the European manufacturers. It is very flattering for them, as the English manufacturers were personally represented, and backed here by influential persons. Messrs. BALDWIN were only represented by their drawings and specifications.

Coffee has again gone up. Yesterday, sales to the extent of 50,000 bags were made at 7,400@7,800, principally for the United States.

Since my last, (April 1.) there has been sold and forwarded to the United States, 52,000 bags; for other ports, 37,000 bags.

Exchange closed firmly to-day, at 25¾d. to the milrei.

Exchange on France, 368@375 reis to the franc.

Exchange on United States nominal, at 2.100 to the 30 days' sight.

Freights to the United States, 70s. sterling; to the Channel, 70s.

The one-half of each of the following vessels were sold at auction last week: Abigal, Anon, E. Grant, Fanny Crenshaw, Richmond, and all owned in Richmond, Va. The United States Consul protested against the sale, the proper legal documents not being deposited at the United States Consulate. They were bought in by a broker, at from $2,000 to $4,000 each half.

We anxiously await continued news of the success of the Union cause. THE MAJOR.

GENERAL NEWS.

PRESENTATION SWORD TO COMMODORE PAULDING AT THE NAVY-YARD.—A thorough and thrilling Union sentiment—A dress-sword from Citizens of Nicaragua—Speeches and other Ceremonies—Mr. Paulding, now in command of the Navy-yard, Brooklyn, was the recipient of a compliment from the Government of Nicaragua, the equal of which has been but twice extended to the officers of our army or navy. The action of Commodore PAULDING, while in command of the Home Squadron, in arresting the proceedings of WALKER, the "Gray-eyed Man of Destiny," was severely commented on by papers in the influence of the filibusters, but was subsequently approved by the United States Congress, which allowed him, as a special favor, to receive the testimonial awarded by a grateful Government for the services he had rendered.

On Wednesday of last week, the accredited Minister from Nicaragua, Señor MOLINA, represented for the occasion by Don ROSA J. PEREZ, in the name of his Government presented to the Commodore the sword prepared by his Government as a testimonial of the valuable services he had rendered. The presentation was accompanied by appropriate remarks on the part of Señor PEREZ, conveyed through an official letter, and a reply suitable to the occasion by the gallant Commodore. The sword is one of unusual magnificence, the hilt and scabbard being of solid gold, chased in the most elaborate style. The hilt is studded with amethysts, with the coat-of-arms of Nicaragua engraved thereon, and bearing the following inscription:

"La Republica de Nicaragua al Commodore H. PAULDING," and on the blade is the following inscription: "Par su noble compartimemento, en Punta de Castilla el 8 Decembre, de 1857."

This is the third occasion on which an American officer has been officially permitted to receive the recognition of a foreign Government in the shape of a personal present, and it has never been more deservedly granted. Commodore PAULDING, throughout the trying scenes of WALKER'S filibustering expedition to Nicaragua, ever bore himself as a trustworthy representative of his Government, and has now received the justly earned commendations of his own Government in permitting the reception of this fitting testimonial, and of the friendly Government by which his services have been appreciated.

THE BURGLARY IN BURLING-SLIP—ARREST OF ONE OF THE PARTIES.—A short time since we published in the TIMES an account of a very bold and skillful burglary which had been committed in the office of CHARLES H. MARSHALL & Co., at No. 38 Burling-slip. The thieves entered the premises by means of false keys, and obtained access to the safe by blowing it open with gunpowder. The sum of $6,081 was stolen therefrom—the principal part of which consisted of United States Treasury Notes. Immediately after the discovery of the theft, Mr. MARSHALL sent out handbills to all parts of the country, in which he gave the numbers of the notes, and a general description of all the stolen property. On Monday last, a well-known man of this city, named ETHRIDGE M. FISH, presented a $1,000 Treasury Note at the broker's office of Mr. JOHN K. ROBINSON, in Wilmington, in the State of Delaware. Mr. ROBINSON at once recognized the number of the note, and knew it was one of those which had been advertised by Mr. MARSHALL. FISH was therefore taken into custody upon suspicion, and confined in Wilmington until a requisition from Gov. MORGAN could be obtained. Officer NIVEN, of the Second Precinct, yesterday afternoon arrived in town with his prisoner, having obtained the consent of Gov. BARTON, of Delaware, to bring him on here for trial. It is known that the accused passed two other of the lost notes in Wilmington previous to his arrest. The authorities do not believe that FISH was a party to the burglary, but that he is a member of a very large gang of thieves, burglars, and pickpockets, there is no doubt. When he was taken before Justice OSBORNE yesterday afternoon, he refused to give any satisfaction whatever as to the way in which the Treasury Notes came into his hands. He is also charged with having passed another of the stolen notes in Philadelphia. After an examination before the Magistrate, he was committed to the Tombs.

DEATH FROM STARVATION.—A melancholy case of death from starvation and neglect, was brought to the notice of the Coroner yesterday afternoon, at No. 35 Pitt-street. The victim was a child named GEORGE MADDEN, about five years of age. The father was one of the first to volunteer in defence of his country, and when he took his departure from this City, over a year ago, he left a wife and an only son. Unfortunately, the wife had some bad habits, and about a week since she left her home and her child, with no one in charge, and has not since been heard from. At an early hour yesterday morning, the little boy was found in the last stages of starvation. Death ensued shortly after his condition was ascertained, and before any relief could be rendered. A post mortem examination, made by Dr. ROBINSON, of the Coroner's Office, revealed the fact that the child died from the want of food. No verdict of censure was passed upon the unnatural and inhuman mother.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.—In this Court, yesterday, before Recorder HOFFMAN, ROBERT SHANNON, native of Pennsylvania, 35 years of age, was tried and convicted of stealing a gold watch and other property, valued at $128, from the residence of GEO. BARCLAY, Ex-British Consul, No. 8 Washington-place. The prisoner, with another man, called at the residence of Mr. BARCLAY, and asked the privilege of attaching some new gas burners to the fixtures in the house with a view of selling them if they were satisfactory. They were allowed to put them up in one room, and while doing the job, took the opportunity to steal the property aforesaid. SHANNON was remanded for sentence. His accomplice has not been arrested. DAVID BROWN was tried on an indictment for grand larceny, and acquitted. MARY ANN DIX pleaded guilty to an assault on ADELINE WISNER, and was sent to the City Prison for one day.

HEATING AND VENTILATING SCHOOLS.—The Board of Education held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of deciding upon contesting bids for heating and ventilating Ward School No. 29, in the First Ward. Messrs. BAKER & SMITH bid $3,500, and TOURNEY & ELDER $2,950. After a very long and tedious discussion the Board decided to give the contract to Messrs. TOURNEY & ELDER, by a vote of 27 to 4. This decision will also, in all probability, decide a similar question in the case of new primary schools in the Twelfth and Seventeenth Wards, and, it is claimed, save about $1,800 to the City.

FIRE COMMISSIONER.—At the meeting of the representatives of the Fire Department, at Fireman's Hall, an election for Fire Commissioner was held to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of B. F. PENTZ. The result was as follows:

Ralph Tremblay	114
H. W. Parker	84
Mr. Peterson	9
Total	207

After which Mr. TREMELAY was declared duly elected, Mr. TREMBLAY'S election will be most satisfactory to the Department, and also to the citizens generally.

CHARGED WITH STEALING FROM A FELLOW-PASSENGER.—PIERRE L. RENAUD, alias Reno Leon, was taken into custody by Officer CROSBY, yesterday, upon the complaint of JOSEPH MORREL, who alleges that the accused broke open his trunk, and robbed it of $84 in French and American gold. The parties were fellow-passengers on board a steamer lately arrived from Europe, and during the passage, Mr. MORREL says, the prisoner committed the offence. Justice OSBORNE committed RENAUD, in default of $1,000 bail.

TRANSPORTATION FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS FROM NEW-ENGLAND.—The wounded New-England soldiers can hereafter obtain transportation orders from Col. FRANK E. HOWE, at their headquarters No. 194 Broadway. Col. HOWE has just been appointed Brigadier-Quartermaster of the army, which empowers him to issue transportation tickets. Wounded soldiers from Vermont will hereafter be forwarded immediately to the hospital at Burlington, whence they will be sent to their homes.

NEW PICTURE AT SCHAUS'.—A new picture by AUGERO, "The Downfall of the Rebellion," has attracted much attention in SCHAUS' window during the past week. The coloring is remarkably fine, and shows evidently a master-hand. It will remain on free exhibition for a short time longer. At the same establishment we notice some excellent German landscapes, by ACHENBACH and LEU.

BARNUM AND HIS BABIES.—The $100 boy was quite under the weather yesterday, as was also the little wee bit of a baby, but the rest of the rising generation seemed to be in the best of humors, the pleasantest of moods and the jolliest of tempers. Commodore NUTT frightened some of them with his deafening drumming, but a candid judge could not fail to award the premium for most noise to the infants. The Museum was crowded with visitors from early morning.

SERIOUS INJURY.—As a man named DENNIS O'CAHILL was passing the corner of Frankfort-street and Chatham, he was struck violently in the side by the wheel of a hand-cart which was forced upon him by contact with a dray which was passing at the time. Mr. O'CAHILL was thrown to the ground with much force, and for some time was unable to move or speak. He was taken home in a carriage.

NEW STEAMBOAT AND RAILROAD ROUTE TO SPRINGFIELD.—A very pleasant and expeditious line has just been established to Springfield vid New-Haven. Passengers, by taking the steamer Continental at Peck-slip at 3½ P. M., arrive in New-Haven at 7¼, where a train is in waiting to convey travelers over the Hartford Road to Meriden, Berlin, Hartford, Springfield by thirpoint at 8.22, (and Hartford at 9 in the evening, arrive in the steamboat dock at 11 o'clock, and reach New-York at 5 o'clock the next morning.

THE HARSOM CAB.—This favorite vehicle for riding, so popular in London, has been introduced on the Central Park, in order to give the public an opportunity to test its merits, and to determine its adaptation to the Park use. Citizens who have not seen this cab may recognize it by its peculiar style and shape, and the driver seated behind the passengers, instead of being in front as in ordinary carriages.

ST. BARNABAS' DAY.—This anniversary was celebrated at Trinity Church yesterday, with full choral service. A large audience was in attendance. Among the officiating clergymen were Rev. Dr. OGILBY, Rev. Dr. VINTON and Rev. Messrs DIX. The Sunday school children connected with Trinity and St. Paul's Churches also celebrated their anniversary, at the former church, in the afternoon.

DROWNED WHILE LEARNING TO SWIM.—LUKE GALLAGHER, a lad 8 years of age, was accidentally drowned on Tuesday afternoon, at the foot of Canal-st., while engaged with several other boys in learning to swim. The body was recovered soon after, and yesterday Coroner WILDEY held an inquest at the residence of the boy's parents, No. 541 Canal-st.

BURNED TO DEATH.—CATHARINE FUREY, aged 6 years, was burned to death yesterday while playing with fire in a vacant lot at the corner of Seventh-avenue and Fifty-third-street. Coroner COLLIN held an inquest upon the body.

SAILING OF THE FRENCH FRIGATE.—The French frigate Bellona, which has been at anchor in our harbor for several days past, sailed yesterday morning.

Smuggling Case.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—JUNE 11.

Before Judge Smalley and a Jury.

The United States vs. One Trunk Marked S. M., Containing Pearls, &c.—This was an action to forfeit the goods on account of an attempt to smuggle. The evidence for the prosecution was that of Custom-house Inspectors, who testified that they attended when the steamer Champion arrived from Aspinwall on May 14, 1862. One of the passengers was named Solomon Miguel. His baggage consisted of two trunks, a box, a case and a package. One of the Inspectors asked Miguel what his baggage contained, and he said, "Nothing but his clothes." The baggage was examined, and in the trunk was found pearls, laces, linens, silks, &c. The silks were found in the cover of the trunk; a package of pearls was found in the pocket of a pair of white pantaloons, and another in a shirt. The Inspector opened the pearls and asked what they were, and Miguel said they were nothing but some shells he had picked up on the shore, and were valueless. The lace was between the clothes. The goods were landed under the usual passenger's permit.

Mr. Miguel was sworn, and testified that he was in New-York in October, 1860, and that his wife bought the dry goods here before they left for Acapulco. More than half the pearls he bought in San Francisco from a man named Josephi. He was going to Europe to buy goods. He denied saying what the Inspectors testified he said. Several witnesses were called on either side to substantiate the respective stories.

The jury this morning rendered a verdict for the Government, condemning the goods.

For the United States, E. D. Smith, Esq.; for claimant, Messrs. Webster & Craig.

The Office of Health Warden—Power of the City Inspector to Remove Incumbent.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Clerke.

Demerest vs. The Mayor, &c.—In this case the plaintiff brought his action to recover salary alleged to be due him as Health Warden, accruing subsequently to his removal from office by the City Inspector, without the concurrence of the Board of Aldermen.

The following is the opinion of the Court touching the authority of the City Inspector to remove the plaintiff, and the latter's right to recover:

CLERKE, J.—The question to be determined in this case is, whether the City Inspector has the power to remove a Health Warden without the concurrence of the Board of Aldermen.

By the act of 1850, the City Inspector is empowered to appoint Health Wardens, with and by the consent of the Board of Aldermen.—(Laws of 1850, p. 607.)

Has this provision been repealed or nullified by the Legislature? I see nothing in the Charter of 1857 which can be deemed to said effect. Section 21, indeed, authorizes the City Inspector, as well as the Heads of Departments of the Municipal Government, to remove the Chiefs of Bureaus and Clerks in their respective Departments; but it would be a very strained construction to say that this extends to Health Wardens. They are neither Chiefs of Bureaus nor are they clerks. The object of this section, I think, was to give the Head of the Department control over the persons connected with the direction and routine of the Bureaus, and not over subordinates whose duties were to be performed elsewhere, and at a distance from the office where the general direction and routine of the business of the Department was to be transacted.

If there is any ordinance unrepealed of the Common Council, conferring on the City Inspector the exclusive power of appointment of Health Wardens, it is void. Such an assumption of authority would be in contravention of the act of 1850, which, so far as I am able to ascertain, has not been repealed or modified by any subsequent act of the Legislature. I think, however, that the provision of the seventh section of the ordinance of 1853 no longer exists. Every section of that ordinance was incorporated in the revision of the ordinances adopted in 1859, and thus the latter was substituted in its place—withdrawing the power of removal from the City Inspector alone.

The plaintiff not having been legally removed, and his successor not having been legally appointed until the 30th of December, 1859, he is entitled to payment of his salary from July, 1859, to that day.

Amount, with interest, to be computed.

Asa B. Gardener and Geo. W. Morton, for plaintiff; H. H. Anderson for City.

The Office of Canal Collector—Where it may be Established.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Barnard.

The People ex rel. Whitlock vs. Nathaniel P. Benton.—This was an application for a mandamus to compel Auditor Benton to approve and file the bond of E. J. Whitlock, the relator, as Canal Collector, for the office in this City.

It will be remembered that in February last the office was abolished in this City, together with others, in other places.

Recently the Board again established the office in this City, and appointed the relator Collector. The Auditor, however, refused to approve and file the bond, upon the ground that there was no law conferring power upon the Canal Board to create or maintain offices at places not upon the line of the canals.

The Court, however, allowed the writ, directing the Auditor to approve and file the bond.

Decisions.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Barnard.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Monell.

Hummel vs. Brunjes et al.—Case settled, and left in Clerk's office.

Before Justice White.

Levy vs. Lamoureux.—Motion granted.

WEDNESDAY, June 11—P. M.

The Stock Exchange was moderately active this forenoon. The course of prices was fair on Government Securities, and steady on Southwestern State Stocks and Railway Mortgages. But on the Railway Share list the prevailing feeling was dull, and prices a fraction lower from the best rates of Tuesday afternoon. American Gold advanced to 104⅛@104¼. The City Bank Shares were steady, Pacific Mail 1@1¼ ℔ cent. cheaper than yesterday. When the Railway Shares were reached, in the forenoon, a strong demand was shown for New-York Central, and the cash price rose to 92¾ ℔ cent. Erie were weak on the Common Stock and dull on the preference Shares. The Harlem Shares, of both classes, continued firm and in demand at yesterday's advanced figures. Most of the Western Stocks left off comparatively steady, while Chicago and Rock Island was firm and in request at an advance of 1 ℔ cent. on Tuesday's prices. The upward speculation in Harlem Shares continues, and 39½ ℔ cent. was paid for the Preferred Stock at the close this afternoon. The latest prices were:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Another battle has taken place in the Valley of the Shenandoah, in which the losses are heavy—this time between JACKSON'S forces and the advance of Gen. SHIELDS' Division, which has been pushing on from Luray to the support of Gen. FREMONT. The advance, it appears, had reached the Port Republic Bridge, across the Shenandoah, on Sunday night, but neglected, for some reason, to destroy it, though the rebels were known to be in force on the other side. JACKSON made the attack on Monday morning, the day following the battle with Gen. FREMONT, and a desperate fight took place for the possession of the bridge—our forces seeing, when too late, the importance of destroying it. The enemy came on in overwhelming numbers, and our advance was finally compelled to retreat, which it did in good order, until it reached the main body, when JACKSON again turned and continued his flight, burning the Port Republic bridge behind him. It will be seen by reference to a map, that Gen. FREMONT'S army is on one side of the Shenandoah, and Gen. SHIELDS' on the other.

We record another battle and another victory for Gen. MITCHEL this morning, on the authority of a dispatch from Cairo to the President of the Chicago Sanitary Association. The affair is said to have taken place at Chattanooga, to have lasted through two days, and to have resulted in the complete rout of the rebel forces.

Our latest advices from Gen. MCCLELLAN'S army indicate that nothing unusual was occurring.

Our dispatches from Fortress Monroe state that stormy weather still continues in that vicinity, and military operations are consequently seriously interfered with. Gen. BURNSIDE returned to North Carolina on Tuesday, through the inland passage, on board the gunboat Port Royal. Our correspondent informs us that on Monday he went up the York River, for consultation with Gen. MCCLELLAN.

Commander PENNOCK (of Commodore DAVIS' fleet) telegraphs to the Navy Department that the buildings and machinery of the late Memphis Navy-yard were found uninjured when our forces occupied the town.

The ram flotilla, the new arm (or beak) of the navy, which rendered such signal service in the decisive action near Memphis, consists of eight craft. They are mostly steamers razeed and altered by covering their sides with two thicknesses of live-oak timber, each being about eight inches thick. The prows are iron-plated, and quite sharp. They have powerful engines, as may be seen from their crashing effect when they struck the rebel vessels. Instead of heavy guns, they carried numbers of sharpshooters, whose firing among the rebel gunners was very effective. Two of the rebel vessels were sunk outright by the shock of the rams.

Reinforcements have been sent to Gen. DUMONT, in command at Nashville, to meet a demonstration which it is supposed the rebels are making against that city.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. DIXON, of Connecticut, introduced a resolution, which was laid over, declaring that all acts or ordinances of secession are null and void, and that the relations of any State to the Union are not changed, whatever may be the forfeitures and penalties to which individuals may be subjected. A bill was introduced for the better government of the navy. Papers and documents were presented in support of the claim of Deseret to be admitted as a State. The bill in relation to the appointment of lieutenants in the marine corps was passed. The bill to establish Provisional Governments in rebellious States, in certain cases, was reported back from the Judiciary Committee, with a recommendation that it be passed. The bill to amend the Fugitive Slave law was postponed for the consideration of the Pacific Railroad bill, which was considered, and the amendments ordered to be printed. The bill providing for additional medical officers in the volunteer service was debated at considerable length and passed. The bill from the House for the relief of Gen. GRANT, giving him an allowance of $1,000 for a check for that amount lost several years ago, was debated until the Senate went into Executive Session.

In the House, a resolution acknowledging the services of Maj. ANDERSON and his officers and men at Fort Sumter, was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. The Senate amendments to the bill regulating the pay of certain army officers, were considered, but not finally disposed of. The bill to organize the boundaries of the Circuit Courts of the United States was passed. Mr. BINGHAM, of Ohio, submitted a preamble and resolution reciting certain charges against BEN. WOOD, a Representative from this City, of communicating or attempting to communicate with the enemy, and directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into them. Mr. WOOD was not present when the resolution was read, but soon afterward came in, and expressed the hope that it would be adopted—and it was. Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, reported a bill from the Committee of Ways and Means, authorizing the issue of $150,000,000 of Treasury Notes, not bearing interest. It was ordered to be printed. The Ways and Means Committee were instructed to report a bill providing that Courts-Martial shall not, hereafter, sentence to the penitentiary officers and men proved guilty of offences not deemed infamous at common law. The House then adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS.

By the arrival of the steamship Africa at Halifax, we receive advices from Europe two days later. She left Liverpool on the 31st ult., and Queenstown on the 1st inst. The news is not specially important. Mr. LINDSAY, in the British House of Commons, had given notice that he should call attention to the relations of England with the Federal, and also the Confederate States of America, on the 27th of June. It is stated that the French army at Rome was about to be reduced to a single division. The session of the Spanish Cortes had been extended, on account of the Mexican question. It was understood that Gen. PRIM was to return home, and that Gen. SERRANO would go to Mexico as Ambassador. The Turks are reported to have gained a great victory in Montenegro. There are no later reports of the Liverpool cotton market than were received by the previous steamer. Breadstuffs were advancing, but Provisions continued dull. American securities were steady.

The First, Second, Third and Fourth New-Jersey Regiments, with the soldiers of HEXAMER'S Battery, recently sent $70,000 to their families.

Both the Twenty-Second New-York and the Fifth Artillery are in Baltimore. The former are encamped on an elevated tract of land south of Patterson's Park, and the latter are occupying Fort Marshall.

There are now in Camp Douglas, Chicago, no less than 8,962 rebel prisoners, who were captured at Fort Donelson, Pittsburgh Landing and Island No. 10.

Justice CLERKE, sitting at Special Term of the Supreme Court, has decided, in the case of Demerest vs. The Mayor, &c., that the City Inspector is not authorized to remove Health Wardens from office without the concurrence of the Board of Aldermen. Justice BARNARD, sitting at Chambers of the Supreme Court, has allowed a writ of mandamus compelling Auditor BENTON to approve and file the bond of E. J. WHITLOCK, appointed Collector of the Canal Office recently reopened in this City. The Auditor had refused so to do, alleging that the Canal Board had no authority to establish such offices elsewhere than on the line of the canals.

The Stock Market was rather tame on the speculative list yesterday, but at the close of the day prices rallied, and the bidding was generally equal to that of Tuesday afternoon, and higher on New-York Central and Rock Island. Governments are firm; Gold, 104¼@104⅜; Exchange, 115¼@115½ ₱ cent.

Receipts of Breadstuffs, yesterday, were limited, while the sales were extensive; and prices of Flour, Wheat and Corn advanced. Groceries were quiet. Provisions attracted more attention, especially Pork, which closed irregularly. A fair inquiry prevailed for Hay, Hops, Tallow and Whisky. Fish, Coal, Manila Hemp, Leather, Oils and Calcutta Linseed were in moderate request. The Freight Market was brisker, but rates were quoted lower. The public sales of Cotton, on account of Government, comprised, 1,021 bales; the private sales were unimportant.

Rebel Movements Toward the Far South.

There is an inconsistency in rebel military movements which, at first glance, is puzzling. Their army of Virginia, and their late army of the West, evidently were not governed by the same controlling considerations. Indeed, the inconsistency of their respective operations would seem to indicate that the rebel leaders have no policy, or that, if they have one, they are without the courage to maintain it at all points alike. Some weeks ago JEFF. DAVIS evidently was disposed to retire gracefully from Virginia for some more Southern field of defensive operations. The Confederate Congress, already struck with panic, made good its retreat before the rebel army had begun to retire. The Virginia rebels took alarm at this, and remonstrated fiercely against the retrograde movement, which they had clearly reason to anticipate. Their complaints, naturally enough, were tinged with the States' Rights heresy on which secession rests its foundation-stone, and it was broadly hinted that, if the war was to be carried to the Gulf States, and Virginia abandoned to the Union army, her sons would remain at home. They were willing to fight and starve on the "sacred soil;" but upon a transfer of the struggle to a new and more Southern field, they would have no part or lot in the matter. The "right of secession," destroying all unity in Government, was held to mean the right of the troops of each State to abandon the common cause whenever its management fails to suit individual State policy; and secession was in danger of destroying itself by a general mutiny in the rebel camp, if the Jeff. Davis policy of retiring to the Cotton States should be attempted.

In this state of the case the rebels tried their hand at "compromise"—a line of operation in which Southern politicians used to be tolerably successful—always taking the oyster and leaving us but the polished shells. Mrs. JEFF. DAVIS and family were sent to Raleigh with Dr. GWIN, while the rebel President staid behind to make a "grand stand" at Richmond, and try to find the whereabouts of a certain "last ditch." Military strategy and States Rights politics wouldn't mix conveniently—so strategy went to the wall and the little DAVISES went South. The great rebel leader then, hemmed in by States Rights on one side, and MCCLELLAN'S army on the other, made a desperate effort to break through the Union lines and destroy our army, with what result all know. Many hundreds of brave men have found their last ditch in the bottoms skirting the Chickahominy, and the flower of the rebel army has learned how impossible it is to overrun and destroy the disciplined and well-proven troops now advancing the National standard toward Richmond. As the terrible conflict of Shiloh broke the back of rebellion in the Mississippi Valley, so probably the battle of Fair Oaks has settled the question at Richmond, despite the apparent persistency of the enemy, and his boasts of what he will do in the future.

To look now to the Southwestern field. BEAUREGARD had there no civilian aristocrats to dictate his course. He watched the movements of HALLECK, and with the eye and judgment of an educated military man, foresaw that he could not hold Corinth any longer than should suit his opponent's purposes. He hesitated long, nevertheless, before moving, for he foresaw also that a retreat would demoralize his army, and lead to serious defection and desertions. Meantime, HALLECK pressed him so closely that he had but one alternative—to get out of the way or accept a merciless drubbing. He chose to run, and lost twenty thousand men by the operation. Where he has really gone to, is still a matter of doubt.

Had BEAUREGARD designed to maintain the contest longer in the Southwest,—if he had the slightest idea of holding any part of the Mississippi Valley,—he would have fallen back upon Grand Junction when compelled to leave Corinth. Then, by strengthening his new position, holding Fort Pillow against Commodore DAVIS, and Memphis against FARRAGUT'S fleet from New-Orleans, he would have accomplished several important military objects. First of all, he would have compelled HALLECK to operate against him at arm's length, with the Union line of communications up the Tennessee River—a base of operations difficult, distant and liable, at this season, to embarrassment from falling water. At the same time BEAUREGARD would have contiued to hold the important line of railroad communication with Memphis and toward Little Rock, as well as that running south through the State of Mississippi.

The fact that the rebel leader in the southwest neglected this, and moved southward with so much of his army as he could hold together, suggests the strong probability that he and JEFF. DAVIS have an understanding with each other which neither dare avow to their followers. That understanding looks to a retreat to the Atlantic Cotton States, whither DAVIS desired to go two months since, and the entire abandonment of Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri. DAVIS sees clearly the necessity for abandoning Virginia. He saw it long ago, when his associates in the great conspiracy could not understand the policy. Possibly, since the battle of Fair Oaks, light is breaking upon them. If it does not light their path southward, another battle will, and DAVIS is preparing to concentrate his forces from all quarters at certain points in the far South, in accordance with his own notions of long ago. That, at all events, is what the retreat from Corinth looks like. It may be relied upon that Gen. MCCLELLAN anticipates these rebel movements, and will be found to have provided against them so far as is possible.

L'Enfant Perdu.

The revelation of Confederate Commissioner ROST, writing from Madrid to the Government at Richmond, is certainly one of the most valuable, as it is one of the most amusing, developments of the diplomatic history of the rebellion. The valuable part of Mr. ROST'S disclosure is the Spanish Minister's distinct conviction and assurance to him that the Emperor NAPOLEON "considered the disruption of the Union and of its rising navy as a great misfortune to France." The relations between the Governments of France and of Spain are believed to be of a most confidential character. And so clear and unreserved a declaration of the Emperor NAPOLEON'S sentiments in regard to American affairs as the above, made by Mr. CALDERON COLLANTES, the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, is entitled to serious attention. Standing alone, the fact might not have much weight. But when there is so much in French history and so much in French policy to make reasonable the Emperor's aspiration for the preservation of the American Union, so remarkable a speech as that of the Spanish Minister must receive credence. If there was in the mind of the Spanish Government a shadow of doubt as to the Emperor's views, the Minister would have given utterance to no such language; for the interview, as reported by Mr. ROST, gives evidence of the courtly kindness with which the rebel Commissioner was treated, and the manifest effort of the Spanish Minister to make his communications to Mr. ROST as agreeable as possible.

But the amusing part of Mr. ROST'S report to his Confederate Secretary of State, Ex-Hon. R. M. T. HUNTER, is that in which he relates the argument he had with Mr. CALDERON COLLANTES, trying to prove to the latter that the Confederate States were the "natural allies of Spain," and that Spain would serve her own interests by immediately recognizing the Southern Confederacy, and making common cause with it. The substance of the dialogue just here is worth reproducing, for the fun of it:

"Spain was our natural ally and friend, and her paramount interest was that we should become an independent Power. When we were recognized, similarity of institutions, ideas and social habits, would form between us a more cordial friendship and alliance than had ever existed between two people. He said he hoped it might be so, but he would not conceal the fact that Mr. SEWARD was taking great pains to convince him that the North had always been friendly, while the South was ever hostile to Spain; that while the North was their best customer for the sugar of their colonies, and supplies them with all they wanted in exchange, no private expeditions had ever sailed from their ports for the invasion of Cuba, but invariably from those of the South; and that if the Confederate States become hereafter a strong Government, their first attempt at conquest would be upon that island. I answered that the representations of Mr. SEWARD were disingenuous and untrue."

The Spanish Minister could not have indulged in that apt and admirable retort without keenly enjoying the sport. He affects not to speak of unpleasant facts as within the Spanish memory. The Ostend Conference and its managers are not alluded to, nor LOPEZ and his crazy raid upon Cuba. But Mr. CALDERON COLLANTES simply says to Mr. ROST that Mr. SEWARD (name of evil to rebel diplomats!) was "taking great pains" to convince the Spanish Government that the Northern States had never tried to rob Spain of Cuba, but that all filibustering expeditions for that wicked purpose had sailed from "Southern ports." Mr. COLLANTES does not say how successful Mr. SEWARD had done in enlightening Spain on the past history of marauding expeditions against Cuba. He leaves the simple-minded Mr. ROST to believe, if he chooses, that the Spanish Government is wholly ignorant of the facts, and does not know how much to credit of the American Secretary's statements. Poor Mr. ROST is entirely unaware of the Spanish Minister's adroitness, and plunges in fearlessly to demolish Mr. SEWARD. He boldly charges that Mr. SEWARD'S representations are "disingenuous and untrue;" and then he ventures to give Mr. CALDERON COLLANTES the truth of history in regard to Cuba.

Mr. ROST proceeds to assert that the North and South have equally desired Cuba. The North want it and "will ever want it," for commercial profit. But the South only wanted it in order to make three Slave States of it and gain six United States Senators—whereby the South might longer control the Federal Government. Restore the Union, says Mr. ROST, and "our want will revive"—but acknowledge our independence and we will never want Cuba again. On the contrary, we will acknowledge our independence when compelled to, as we are continually threatening to do ourselves, ever carry the threat into execution. If, in the instance of the rebel capital, however, the proverb is falsified, and the city is actually set afire, it is to be hoped that the rebel scoundrels who apply the torch will have the consistency to fling themselves into the flames.

"champions," each watching to get the advantage of the other, but neither making a bold attack until the ram, by accident, gets aground, when the other in a most "ungenerous and unchivalric" manner, takes advantage of her misfortune to deal a fatal blow. It is quite clear, on the other hand, that this combat was but another instance of that lack of nerve on the part of the rebels which makes them unable to stand a bayonet charge, as all our soldiers agree. The Manassas made a dash at the Mississippi, expecting to see her flee in terror, but as soon as the officers of the Manassas saw that, instead of fleeing, the Mississippi was making a charge full upon them, their courage failed them and they dodged, preferring rather to run their vessel ashore than meet the shock which was awaiting them. It would have been out of character, for the Times to have recognized this weakness on the rebel side. But we do not wonder that, looking at the affair with such mental obfuscation, it should declare that the "details are calculated at first sight rather to embarrass our judgment than to determine our conclusions on the new problems of naval warfare."

The London Times on the Naval Battle Below New-Orleans.

It is really amusing to see the effect upon the London Times of the capture of New-Orleans. The events of that desperate seafight seem to have thrown the Thunderer into a state of doubt and confusion quite remarkable to witness. But the same determination never to admit that any possible good could come out of our Nazareth; the same utter blindness to any valor or skill or determination on the part of our officers and soldiers is just as apparent as heretofore. Thus, for instance, it quotes that expression of one of our Commanders, that "it was a contest of iron hearts in wooden vessels, and iron-clad with iron beaks, and the iron hearts won;" of which it says that "this Commander goes so far as to declare, in his very pardonable exultation, that the victory was nothing less than a victory of wood over iron;" and it declares that if that statement "were an actual description of the affair, the story would be almost beyond comprehension or belief."

But we do not understand that jubilant expression of Commander BOGGS to be a declaration that wood had won a victory over iron, but that superior valor and skill, stouter hearts and readier arms carried victory with them, in spite of the immense advantage of iron over wood. And so, we venture to say, will it be read by history and by her accepted as in the truest sense, "an actual description of the affair." But it would never do for the London Times to read it so, because that would be admitting that the superiority in valor and skill was with the North instead of with its rebel protegés—and that would never do. Rather than do that, it would try to make out the Federal Commander to be a fool, who, carried away by exultation, declared that wood was stronger than iron.

The same article in the Times speaks of the destruction of the ram Manassas by the Mississippi, of which it gives the following description: "The two champions wheeled about each other in insidious manœuvres for some time, till at length the Manassas got aground, when the Mississippi knocked her to pieces with a single broadside." Fraser's Magazine had, some months ago, a capital article on the "Art of Putting Things," in which the writer says: "Don't we all know some people who never, by any chance, put a thing except in the unfavorable way?" The London Times, when it speaks of American affairs, is a distinguished specimen of this sort of people. Compare that description with the one on which it was founded, viz.: FARRAGUT'S account of the affair in his dispatch to the Secretary of the Navy. "The Manassas and the Mississippi made a set at each other at full speed, and when they were within thirty or forty yards, the ram dodged the Mississippi and ran ashore"—or his other account of it, in his letter to PORTER, with its remarkable confusion of genders: "We destroyed the ram in a single combat between her and the old Mississippi, but the ram backed out when she saw the Mississippi coming at him so rampantly, and he dodged her and ran on shore, where SMITH put two or three broadsides through him, and knocked him all to pieces."

There never was a more striking instance of the unfavorable way of putting things than this of the Times, which represents the affair as the skillful and wary maneuvering of two

Too SENSITIVE BY FAR.—The undue annoyance which the secesh demonstrations of the women and ladies of the Southern cities carries to the souls of our Union soldiers, really springs from one of the noblest characteristics of American civilization. With us the status of women is much higher than it is in any other country on the globe. If there is any question of the equality of the sexes, it is only because it is a part of every good American's creed that there is a divinity in women that places equality out of the question. It is possible that there is, if anything, an excess of deference and devotion to the sex, which is not without its social inconveniences and its compensatory disadvantages.

This morbid sensitiveness may fairly be accounted one. The opinions, behavior and sentiments of women weigh so much with Americans, that our soldiers set entirely too much by the grimaces, poutings, skirt-flirtings, nose-upturnings and the other little arts and wiles of the fair and unfair ones of the South. They are astonished and confounded at it, where a European would be perfectly indifferent.

A little time rectifies all this, as it has already at Baltimore and Nashville, and as it no doubt will at Norfolk and New-Orleans. Our soldiers, soon acquire a robust insouciance in regard to these petticoat hostilities. But we still notice occasional evidences of an excessive sensitiveness, and that even on the part of the authorities. A Washington telegram yesterday announced, that while a detachment of rebel prisoners were being marched through the city to the Old Capitol prison, there were "demonstrations by females of sympathy with them, and to-day two were arrested and taken to the guard-house for waving their handkerchiefs as they passed." This is perfectly absurd. The time has passed when these female "sympathies" are worthy of anything but contempt. There was a period when female treason played an important part in our affairs. At the beginning of the war these rebel intriguantes, especially those of the high diplomatic circles at the Capital, conveyed information, aid and comfort to the enemy, and without doubt did infinite damage to the Government. Political intrigue is a female passion, and the part which these women traitors played, both in the inception and the execution of the rebellion, is one of the most revolting instances of how thoroughly devilish a woman becomes when her whole woman's nature is thus inverted and poisoned. The Government, at that time, did well to keep a surveillance over these ongoings. It can afford now to disregard them altogether. The harm which these women can possibly do is not at all equal to the capital which the rebels make, and are glad to make, out of their repression by our authorities. See the uses to which the Secessionist Press, (London Times included,) is turning this matter, and say if we can afford to give them this handle?

BURNING RICHMOND.—The rebels now threaten that they will burn Richmond. Well, against whom is it that this dreadful menace is directed? We suppose it must be considered a threat against themselves. A year ago they were threatening to burn New-York, to burn Boston, to burn Washington, and every Abolition city in the North. Now they propose to change tactics, and burn their own cities. They see that they cannot force our fingers into the fire, and they propose to stick their own fingers in. In this case, who will be burnt but themselves?

Before Nashville was captured, the rebels threatened to burn that town. But not a shanty have they burnt. They threatened to make a "second Moscow" of New-Orleans. But they didn't. The rebels of Memphis held mass meetings daily before our rams made them a visit, and resolved and re-resolved that they would make a "second Moscow" of that place. But in the words of the Mayor of Memphis, the "force of circumstances," if not the force of interests, was too much for them; and the city is yet unconsumed. Charleston is now threatening to burn itself—as though it had not been burned enough already; but if it really means to do so, it had better be quick about it, for it will be too late to do it after Gen. HUNTER takes up his quarters in the Mills House. The Mayor of Charleston, who rejoices in the name of MACBETH, is doubtless aware that, in the words of his great namesake, the threat ——"is but a tale

Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing."

Mobile is at present enjoying the same agony of prospective burning; but the rebels of that city, like the rebels of so many other Southern cities, have doubtless mobility enough to change their minds some time before they actually apply the torch. Following the example of these big cities, all the little towns and hamlets of rebeldom have, within the last half year, passed fearful resolves of self-cremation; but, though we have captured a thousand of them, not more than one has yet carried its resolution into action. So that we very much doubt whether Richmond will be an exception to all other Southern cities in doing what it threatens in this line. It is said by those who have studied into the philosophy of suicide that it is rare that men

AN UNJUST IMPUTATION—THE ELEVENTH NEW-YORK MILITIA.—A correspondent takes us to task for having recently held up a certain New-York regiment to "public contempt as cowards." In the first place, we did not do it. A telegraphic correspondent at Harper's Ferry reported some remarks of a General and his Aid-de-Camp who were in temporary service there, concerning one of the militia regiments which recently volunteered from this city. The General very unjustly and evidently in a fit of passion, characterized the regiment as cowards, because it refused to submit to a violation of the contract made with it by the authorities; but we need not say that, as it is not forbidden us to differ with Generals, we did and do most heartily dissent from the opinion of this one, and utterly condemn the application of any such epithet to such a body of men as the Eleventh New-York Militia. It is a regiment of the best military material, of the very best mettle, and of the most self-devoted patriotism—which is unnecessary to be said when we say it is a German regiment. The Government has had the offer of its services ever since the war began; and now that it has been accepted, there is little danger of its flinching at the calls of duty. The regiment, or its gallant Colonel, or its friends, need not be afraid that the imputation will rest upon it for one moment.

It seems, from several recent instances, that just as the Southern rebels are beginning to withdraw the epithets which they formerly heaped upon Northerners, certain parties on our own side are taking them up. The rebels have discovered, to their cost, that instead of being the poltroons they had imagined, our troops are at least able to meet them man for man, and in their words and actions, they are governing themselves accordingly. Let not Northern Generals or functionaries dare henceforth to use an epithet which has already cost the enemy so dearly, unless the imputation conveyed be clearly proven. Let no officer attempt to shield his own incompetency, or to avert the consequences of his own dereliction of duty, by applying to brave men the word which cuts deepest to their hearts.

THE SOLICITOR OF CUSTOMS BILL.—The House of Representatives on Tuesday last, on motion of Mr. CONKLING of this City, postponed the bill creating the office of Solicitor of Customs at this port until next December. We are inclined to look upon this postponement as being practically a killing of the bill. But whether it is or not, we are glad that Congress refused to pass it now. We should have been somewhat surprised if they had done so. The facts of the case tell so strongly against the bill, as our readers are well aware, for we have done what we could to make those facts public, that we can hardly believe that Congress could overlook them or pass the bill in face of them, and the report of the Committee which accompanied the bill was so full of blunders that it must have damaged the prospects of its passage more than it helped it. And so the bill is postponed, and for some months longer the ancient landmarks remain, and the law business of the United States in this District remains in the hands of the Attorney for the United States. We are thoroughly satisfied that this course is the best for the Government, and best for the citizens who are interested in revenue causes, and that the remedy for whatever causes of complaint may have existed and may have led to the action in this direction, is to be found in quite a different quarter.

A NEW METHOD.—Gen. CURTIS is trying a new method with the cotton-burning rebels in those districts of Arkansas through which his army is marching. One of his orders, dated Batesville, May 28, contains this paragraph:

"The burning of mills and cotton is a public calamity and crime, and Union soldiers and citizens are prohibited from such outrages. If the enemy burn his own stores, his own mills and his own cotton, he impoverishes himself, and should be encouraged and given ample time for such acts of self-humiliation and destruction; but when the Union flag prevails, let us check, as far as possible, the waste of private property, and strive to preserve the peace and restore the prosperity of our once happy country."

This, certainly, is a new application of the great principle of moral suasion, and it is by no means impossible that it may work charmingly. Many of the ignorant Arkansians have undoubtedly been deluded into the belief that the National army is moving through their State simply to gather up the cotton bales which the planters have been unable to send to market, and no shorter or more effective mode could be taken to convince them of the contrary, than to allow them to perpetrate unopposed the suicidal acts upon which they seem so obstinately bent. We hope that Gen. CURTIS will in due time report progress, and tell us how his arguments strike the Bœotians of Arkansas.

A WORD TO BURNSIDE.—Gen. BURNSIDE has lately paid a back-door visit to Fortress Monroe by way of the intra-coast channel. We assume that the General's visit to headquarters, and his intercourse with the Washington authorities, had reference to an important movement imminent. BURNSIDE has not yet "cut the great artery" of rebel communication with the South. The time is at hand when the army of the rebellion now before Richmond will seek to make it escape over this line to the far South. Let BURNSIDE look after this bit of surgery, and if he needs any more tools for the operation, let them be furnished.

A POST-MORTEM INQUISITION.—The British Parliament is to have another grand palaver over the American question before the close of the session. Sir L. PALK has given notice that he intends to introduce the subject, and our old friend LINDSAY has also given notice that he means to "inquire into the relations of England with the Federal, and also with the Confederate States of America." If they do not hurry up the matter, we fear that, so far as the "Confederate States of America" are concerned, it will be a post-mortem inquisition.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

DEMAND NOTES.

The Secretary of the Treasury, in a letter to the Committee of Ways and Means, says: Under the law $60,000,000 demand notes, receivable for customs, have been issued, and $90,000,000 in notes not so receivable. The outstanding amount is, therefore, $150,000,000, being the entire sum heretofore authorized by the existing statutes. Of this aggregate, $56,500,000 in demand notes are held by banks and capitalists, and not used as circulation, being held at a premium in consequence of their availability for customs. The whole issue of $60,000,000 in demand notes may thus be regarded as practically withdrawn from circulation. The limit of temporary deposit is now reached, and nothing further can be expected from that source. It is therefore upon the conversion of United States notes into five and twenty hundredths now practically limited to the $90,000,000 of legal tender notes, and from the receipts from customs that the Treasury must mainly depend under existing legislation for means to meet current expenditures. Hence the suggestion of the Secretary of the Treasury for authority to issue $150,000,000 legal tender notes, if of not less denomination than $5, in accordance with which the bill was to-day reported from the Committee of Ways and Means.

A FALSE REPORT.

There is no ground for the report set afloat in Wall-street, that the Secretary of the Treasury is or has been engaged in private negotiations with New-York parties, for the exchange of the 7.30 for demand notes, or that these negotiations were brought to an abrupt close by reports in Washington of dissatisfaction in Wall-street. The whole truth is simply this: The Treasury last week needed more money than could be readily obtained from the ordinary sources of supply, and the Secretary therefore accepted several offers of three per cent. premium demand notes for the 7.30 bonds, amounting altogether to two and a quarter millions, and having obtained all the money required before the close of the week, he declined accepting any offers after Saturday. No partiality was shown to anybody. No offers made during the week were declined, and none made since have been accepted. The Secretary looked simply to the public interest, and was satisfied with getting what money he wanted with a premium of three per cent. on his bonds, after having been informed by one of the most intelligent Wall-street financiers that he could not reasonably expect more than two,

COLLECTING TAXES IN THE REBEL STATES.

The bill for the collection of direct taxes in the insurrectionary districts has become a law. It provides for the sale of real estate, in certain cases, for this purpose. Where owners have abandoned their land to engage in the rebellion, and the same shall have been struck off to the United States at vendue, the Commissioners proposed to be appointed may lease the same, under such regulations as will secure proper and reasonable employment at wages, or upon shares of the crop of such persons and families as may be residing upon the land. The proceeds of the leases and sales are to be paid into the Treasury, one-fourth of which is to be paid over to the Governer of the State wherein such lands are situated, or his authorized agent, when such insurrection shall be put down, and the people shall elect a Legislature and State officers, who shall take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and such fact shall be proclaimed by the President for the purpose of reimbursing the loyal citizens of said State, or for such other purpose as said State may direct, and one-fourth shall also be paid over to said State as a fund to aid in colonization or emigration from said State of any free person of African descent who may desire to remove therefrom to Hayti, Liberia, or any other tropical State or colony.

SHIPMENTS TO RECLAIMED PORTS.

The Treasury regulations heretofore declared respecting the resumption of interior commerce with points recovered from the rebels, remain unchanged. Shipments may be made to Memphis and all other places in possession of the United States forces under the existing provisions to prevent aid to the enemy. Shipments are subject to the inspection and control of the military commanders at the points of arrival and destination.

EMANCIPATION IN MARYLAND.

On Saturday the Executive Committee of the "Union Party," of Baltimore, waited upon the President and Secretaries CHASE and BLAIR. The Convention which these gentlemen represent recently passed resolutions unanimously indorsing the President's policy of emancipation, and they were consequently warmly received by him. The President and Secretaries approved highly of the bold stand taken by the Convention, which must eventuate in making Maryland a Free State.

THE TAX BILL.

The Tax bill, with Senate amendments, numbering over 300, was printed to-day. It is expected that the Committee on Ways and Means will ask its reference to a Conference Committee, and that it will not be discussed in the House until next week.

THE CONFLICT WITH JACKSON.

Gen. FREMONT'S conflict with JACKSON has been the prominent topic of conversation during the day, and further news from the Mountain Department is anxiously looked for. Much satisfaction is expressed that the "stonewall" hero has at last been overtaken, and hopes entertained that he has not again escaped.

COMMUNICATION WITH NEW-YORK.

We have had but one train from New-York to-day, and the absence of the New-York papers to-night is seriously felt.

LATEST FROM GEN. M'CLELLAN.

A special correspondent of the TIMES, just from the right of our army in front of Richmond, reports all quiet in that quarter at the time of his departure. Occasional artillery firing at our bridge-builders was kept up by the rebels, resulting in but slight damage.

Lieut. PARKER, of Gen. BUTTERFIELD'S Staff, who was taken prisoner at the battle of Hanover Court-house, returned under a flag of truce on Sunday, in exchange for a rebel Captain. Lieut. PARKER was in the hospital during his stay in Richmond, and reports about 160 of our wounded there. The rebel surgeons informed him that about 7,000 wounded of their army were then in Richmond, brought from the battle-field of Fair Oaks.

Gen. PAIN reviewed PORTER'S Division on Monday, with evident satisfaction.

BEN. WOOD—A SCENE IN THE HOUSE.

There was quite a scene in the House to-day when Mr. BINGHAM introduced a resolution asking that as the Government had information that Representative BEN. WOOD had been detected in compliigty with the enemy, the matter be referred to the Judiciary Committee for investigation. Mr. WOOD, who was not in his seat, was sent for, and hurried in much excited. He was understood to say that he was glad the Government intended to accord him an opportunity to defend himself. There are many rumors touching the character of the charges to be presented against Mr. WOOD, but nothing definite is yet known. It is pretty certain, however, that the charges are serious.

THE DIRECT TAX OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The quota of Pennsylvania of the direct tax of $20,000,000 was fixed at about $2,000,000. Mr. MOORE, the State Treasurer, and Mr. M. MCMICHAEL, Jr., arrived here yesterday to settle with the Government, and to-day they had an interview with the Secretary of the Treasury, and the amount necessary over and above the claims of the State against the National Government was paid by Mr. MOORE, and the entire claim settled.

THE DIFFICULTY ABOUT EXCHANGING PRISONERS.

The correspondence between Gen. WOOL and Gen. HUGER shows that a misunderstanding existed between them. The latter says he did intend not to give the former all the officers once returned as hostages in exchange for all the privateersmen, but to give him such a number of them in exchange as would be required by the cartel establishing the equivalent of rank, and the officers to be exchanged as usual. He also expresses the opinion that a perfect understanding has been effected between the two Governments for a general exchange of all prisoners of war. Gen. WOOL, it appears, would not deliver the privateersmen as HUGER requested, until he received the hostages, and the Secretary of War, RANDOLPH, insisted that Gen. WOOL should name a number equal to that of the privateersmen to be exchanged.

THE EMANCIPATION COMMISSION.

The Emancipation Commissioners yesterday commenced the examinations of the slaveholders' claims. The case of JOHN HARRY, of Georgetown, was first on the list. He claims pay for 27 slaves, all of whom were present during the investigation. This morning other cases were examined. The present examinations are preliminary, made for the purpose of classifying the slaves and ascertaining the amount at which they were valued two years ago, and not for final settlement.

NAVAL AFFAIRS.

The following officers have been ordered to report to Commodore PRENDERGRAST, for duty on board the Powhatan: Lieut. JONATHAN YOUNG, Midshipman GEORGE M. VACHE. Lieut. LEONARD PAULDING, ordered to report to Commander PAULDING for ordnance duty at New-York Navy-yard; Lieut M. C. CAMPBELL, orderec to the Jamestown, at Philadelphia; NATHANIEL MORGAN, promoted from Master's Mate of the Relief, to Acting Master at the New-York yard.

Edward D. Payne, Assistant-Surgeon in the navy. Surgeons John M. Cuyler, Richard H. Coolidge, Charles E. Keeney, Edward P. Vollum, George H. Lyman, to be Medical Inspectors, under the recent act of Congress,

J. C. DORR, of Massachusetts, Brigade Inspector.

Julius W. Eggleston, Postmaster at New-London, Conn.

WORK ON THE CAPITOL.

During the present week work has been commenced on the wings of the Capitol, some forty or fifty bricklayers, painters and laborers being employed, beside a large number of stone-cutters. They are paid out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation of 1861. Since the work has been discontinued much damage has been done to the material in the sheds by the breaking off of the corners and edges of the dressed stone.

MILITARY GOVERNOR OF FREDERICKSBURGH.

Maj. LIVINGSTON, of the Seventy-sixth New-York, is appointed Military Governor of Fredericksburgh, Gen. REYNOLDS being relieved, to reassume command in the field.

Mayor OPDYKE arrived here this morning.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The Senate to-day was principally occupied with the consideration of the Pacific Railroad.

THE CITY RAILROAD.

The long talked of Washington City Railroad is now fairly under way. The Company was organized yesterday by the election of seven Directors, and to-day the workmen commenced laying the track, so that within the sixty days specified by the charter the road will be in running order.

REBEL PRISONERS.

Eight Confederate prisoners, captured by Gen. BANKS, and confined in Baltimore jail, yesterday took the oath of allegiance to the United States, and were discharged from custody.

AN UNCONDITIONAL UNION MAN.

At the promenade at the President's grounds on Saturday last, one of our returned Richmond prisoners discovered an assistant Editor of the Richmond Dispatch, whose denunciations of the "mud sills" are so well known. When asked why he was not at home, he replied that for months he had been trying to escape, and having at length effected his purpose, was now, as he always had been, "an unconditional Union man."

PERSONAL.

Secretary SEWARD left for New-York to-day, to be absent several days.

Hon. REVERDY JOHNSON, Commissioner of the State Department, will take passage in the next steamer for New-Orleans.

THE PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

Mr. LATHAM, of California, (Opp.,) offered a resolution that Messrs. CANNON and HOOPER, claiming to be Senators from the State of Deseret, be admitted to the floor of the Senate. Laid over.

Mr. DIXON, of Connecticut, (Rep..) offered a resolution that all acts or ordinances of secession alleged to have been adopted by any Legislature or Convention of people of any State are, as to the Federal Union, absolutely null and void. But while all such acts may, and do, subject individual actors therein to forfeitures and penalties, they do not in any degree affect the relations of the States wherein they have been adopted to the Government of the United States, but are, as to such Government, acts of rebellion, insurrection and hostility on the parts of the individuals engaged therein or giving assent thereto, and that such States, notwithstanding such acts or ordinances, are still members of the Federal Union, and as such, are subject to all the obligations and duties imposed on them by the Constitution of the United States, and loyal citizens of such States are entitled to all the privileges thereby guaranteed and conferred.

The resolution was laid over.

Mr. POWELL, of Kentucky, (Opp.,) introduced a bill to provide the means and mode for taking evidence in support of certain cases against the Government. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Rep..) introduced a bill for the better government of the navy of the United States.

Mr. WADE, of Ohio, (Rep.,) presented certain papers and documents in support of the claim of Deseret for admission as a State.

The bill in relation to the appointment of Lieutenants in the Marine Corps was taken up, and after discussion, passed.

Mr. HARRIS, of New-York, (Rep.,) from the Judiciary Committee, reported back the bill to establish Provisional Governments in certain cases, with the recommendation that it do pass.

At 1 o'clock the bill amending the Fugitive Slave law was taken up as unfinished business.

Mr. LATHAM moved to postpone it and take up the Pacific Railroad bill. Agreed to by yeas 24; nays, 11.

YEAS—Messrs. Browning, Chandler, Collamer, Cowan, Davis, Foster, Harlan, Harris, Howard, Kennedy, Lane of Kansas, Latham, McDougal, Morrill, Nesmith, Pomeroy, Powell, Saulsbury, Starke, Ten Eyck, Trumbull, Wade, Willey and Wilmot—24.

NAYS—Messrs. Anthony, Clark, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foot, Howe, King, Sumner, Wilkinson and Wright.

Mr. MCDOUGAL, of California, (Opp.,) explained the provisions of the bill, contending that the building of such a road was a matter of general and national interest as well as economy. He thought it would be a self-sustaining road, but even if it was not it was of such vast importance to the Government and the country that they might well make appropriations for such an object—but nothing was asked from the Government before the year 1865.

The amendments were ordered to be printed, and the bill postponed until to-morrow.

The bill providing additional medical officers to the volunteer service, was taken up. It provides for 40 surgeons and 120 assistant surgeons.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Rep.) said there was great need of additional surgical aid in the army. He understood that some of the men who were wounded at the battle before Richmond did not have their wounds dressed for the first time until last Saturday.

Mr. CLARK, of New-York, (Rep.) asked why numbers of men in the hospitals were not discharged when they were not fit for service.

Mr. GRIMES said that it was not the fault of Congress. They passed an act as long ago as April for the appointment of Inspectors to look after these hospitals, but these men had not all been appointed. The Medical Department of the Army ought to have seen to this matter

Mr. WILSON said that all the session there had been complaints from the camps and hospitals, loud and strong, against the Medical Department of the army. A large number of regimental surgeons have been appointed, and there were a larger number of Brigade Surgeons than there were brigades, yet the number of surgeons was insufficient. There were a large number of wounded men in the hospitals, and as the Summer came on, the number would increase. There were also complaints that many men had been discharged from the service who were yet fit for it. There was some difficulty in getting the discharge of wounded men. The officers in the volunteer service are very careless in sending men to the hospitals without a descriptive list, without which they cannot get their pay. We hear a great deal about "red tape," but great difficulty is experienced in not following the prescribed forms.

Mr. FOSTER, of Connecticut, (Rep.,) said that there had been very great mismanagement in the appointment of army surgeons. Many of the surgeons were utterly unfit for their duty. At the battle of Winchester many of our wounded soldiers lay for eight or nine days without having their wounds dressed, and some were buried in the very clothes they were wounded in. If the Committee on the Conduct of the War would examine into the matter, they would find that not all the cruelties were perpetrated by the rebels. There were men in our army who had had their legs amputated and then been laid on the floor and told to get up and go out by the surgeons, and when the poor men said they could not go because they had no legs to walk with, such men had been kicked by the surgeons, or by men connected with what is called the "Medical Department of the Army." Such things had occurred after the battle of Winchester. There were at least 15,000 men in the hospitals now who ought to be discharged. Men were sent to the hospitals so carelessly that not even their names were sent with them, and such men have died and been buried as "unknown," leaving their families to suffer years of suspense in regard to their fate.

Mr. WILSON said the Government had done all they could to get proper returns sent. All the necessary blanks had been furnished, but company officers neglected their duty and were careless.

The bill was then passed.

Mr. HOWE, of Wisconsin, (Rep.,) called up the bill from the House for the relief of ULYSSES S. GRANT.

The bill provides an allowance of $1,000 for a check of $1,000 lost in 1848.

Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, (Rep.,) wanted to know why this claim, the cause of which occurred in 1848, came up now? He thought it was because the man's name was "GRANT." He thought it better that it should lay over.

Mr. CLARK said the Committee simply judged from the facts. There was nothing to show when the claim was made.

Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, (Rep.,) thought that the papers would show that the claim was presented long ago. It was well known that many claims were kept here for twenty years. There was no reason for suspicion.

Mr. HOWE said that the papers showed the claim was made in 1852.

Mr. HALE thought from the facts that the case was a suspicious one. It appears the claim was made in 1852, but no favorable report was made upon it. Now, when a halo of military glory is about Gen. GRANT, the claim is brought forward again, and referred, not to the Committee on Claims, but to the Military Committee.

Here, upon the motion of Mr. FESSENDEN, the Senate went into Executive Session, and upon the reopening of the doors, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 11.

Mr. WHALEY, of Virginia, (Union,) offered a resolution in acknowledgment of the services of Major ANDERSON and his officers and men in their gallant stand at Fort Sumter, and providing gold and silver medals for them. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The bill appropriating $150,000 for service under the recently passed route bill, was passed.

The House then resumed consideration of the Senate's amendments to the bill regulating the pay of certain army officers.

The Senate had inserted a section reducing the mileage of Congressmen to twenty cents a mile. The House Military Committee recommended that it be struck out, as it was not germain to an army bill.

Mr. F. A. CONKLING, of New-York, (Rep.,) moved to amend the section by reducing the mileage to the actual traveling expenses.

The amendment was adopted, by 88 against 30, and the House then struck out the section, as thus amended.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Rep.,) moved to reconsider and lay on the table the last vote.

This was agreed to, and hence the mileage reform disappeared.

Without concluding action on the Senate's amendments to the bill, the hour for the consideration of the special order arrived, namely, the bill to organize the boundaries of the circuit courts of the United States.

The bill was passed.

Mr. BINGHAM, of Ohio, (Rep.,) rose to a question of privilege, and submitted the following, which was read at the Clerk's desk:

Whereas, Information has been received by the Government that Hon. BENJAMIN WOOD, a Representative in Congress from the State of New-York, and a member of this House, has been engaged in communicating or attempting to communicate important intelligence to the Confederate rebels in arms against the Government of the United States, be it therefore

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary inquire into the alleged conduct of the said BENJAMIN WOOD in the premises, and to that end the said Committee be authorized to send for persons and papers, and examine witnesses under oath, and report to the House,

Mr. PHELPS, of Missouri, (Union,) said he did not see the gentleman (Mr. WOOD) present in his seat.

Mr. BINGHAM—He was in his seat a moment ago.

Mr. PHELPS would not oppose the proceeding, but it seemed to him but courteous to a member of the House that he should be present under such circumstances.

Mr. BINGHAM—I understand the gentleman is in the refreshment-room. Let a page be sent after him. This is no question for discussion. When I received the communication from the Government, I recognized it as my duty to rise in my place and offer the resolution. I desire to say the communication was made to me and received by me. I state, as a member of the House, that I believe the communication has been communicated to the Government. The resolution has been carefully worded, and does not allege, even by intent, that the information is true. It is purposely guarded, and refers to the alleged conduct of the member, without the slightest intent to prejudge the case.

Mr. WOOD at this point came into the Hall and resumed his seat.

Mr. RICHARDSON, of Illinois, (Opp.,) asked leave to make a suggestion.

Mr. BINGHAM—I will hear the gentleman.

Mr. RICHARDSON—The gentleman from Ohio (BINGHAM) states that this information has been received by the Government, but as the Government is composed of several departments, I would like to know what department has received the information. The gentleman from Ohio (BINGHAM) rises in his place and makes a certain grave accusation against a member of this House; and when a member, on his own responsibility, makes an accusation, I shall vote for an inquiry.

Mr. BINGHAM—I again remind the gentleman I have made no accusation. I repeat the statement that certain information has been furnished to the Government of the character indicated.

Mr. RICHARDSON repeated his question as to what department of the Government had received the information.

Mr. BINGHAM replied, I believe originally the Department of State. The Government is a unit, and when it transmits information to this House it seems hypercritical to be called upon to specify through what channel or specific department of the Government it comes.

Mr. NOBLE, of Ohio, (Opp.,) the gentleman from Ohio (BINGHAM) has stated that the information was communicated to the House from the Executive Department. I, as a member, have heard of no such communication. This is entirely new to the House.

Mr. BINGHAM—My colleague did not hear me distinctly. I said I had a communication to make to the House, and I say upon my responsibility that the preamble to that resolution is true, and such information has been communicated to the Government. I will say that as a matter of justice to the gentleman (WOOD) and myself, I have carefully guarded my words, so that the resolution does not even by intendment accuse him (WOOD) of anything. It is simply a resolution of inquiry, and not of accusation.

Mr. WOOD—I hope the resolution will be adopted and a Committee appointed, to give me an opportunity to defend myself. I also desire to thank the Government for giving me what they have denied to so many others, viz.: an opportunity to be heard.

The resolution was then adopted.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill, which was ordered to be printed, authorizing the issue of one hundred and fifty millions of Treasury notes not bearing interest of the denomination of not less than five dollars, to be receivable in payment of all loans made to the United States, and of all taxes, international duties, excises, debts and demands of every kind due, excepting duties on imports and interest; and of all claims and demands against the United States excepting for interest upon bonds, notes and certificates of debt or deposit; also to be lawful money and a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, excepting duties upon imports and interest on the public debt, etc.

The House then considered the Senate bill relating to the employment of convicts in the District of Columbia Penitentiary, for their improvement and benefit.

A motion was made, but disagreed to by 32 against 66, to strike out the section providing for the discharge of soldiers and volunteers confined in the penitentiary under sentence of Courts-Martial, and prohibiting such imprisonments in future.

The further consideration of the bill was then postponed until to-morrow.

On motion of Mr. SHEFFIELD, of Rhode Island, (Rep.,) the Judiciary Committee were instructed to report a bill providing that Courts-Martial shall not hereafter sentence to the penitentiary officers and men found guilty, and also to discharge all persons now held by virtue of commitments made by such courts for offences not deemed infamous at common law.

Adjourned.

A Defence of the Eleventh Regiment, N. Y. S. M.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Those members of the Eleventh Regiment, N. Y. S. M., who refused to be sworn in at Harper's Ferry, having been held up in your paper to public contempt as cowards, I would respectfully ask you to what position in public opinion you would consign the Seventy-first Regiment. In your issue of June 8 I read:

"Upon the arrival of the regiment in Baltimore, Col. MARTIN at once reported to Gen. DIX for transportation to Washington, when that officer ordered him to proceed at once to Harper's Ferry, but as this order was in direct conflict with Col. MARTIN'S previous orders from Gov. MORGAN to report himself at Washington, Gen. DIX rescinded his order, and furnished the regiment with transportation, when it immediately proceeded to Washington."

It would appear from this that Col. MARTIN directed Gen. DIX'S attention to the fact that the Seventy-first Regiment had left New-York with the distinct understanding that it was to be forwarded to Washington, and nowhere else. Is Col. MARTIN a coward for having done so? Decidedly not. Where then is the justice in branding as cowards those members of the Eleventh Regiment who acted precisely as Col. MARTIN has?

It ought to be understood by the public that a majority of the members of the Eleventh consisted of volunteers who had filled up the ranks but one or two days before, and that most of them did not know anything of the very first rudiments of military tactics. They volunteered on the distinct understanding that they, in relieving the garrison of Washington, would have an opportunity to learn to be soldiers before they would be called upon to do active service. They knew that, raw as they were, they could not have been, if they would, of the slightest earthly use on the field. Now, this being so, and they having been inveigled to Harper's Ferry, contrary to a distinct agreement, were they not as fully entitled to refuse services which were sought to be obtained from them under false pretences, as the Seventy-first Regiment? Must any man who, under any circumstances, refuses to be sworn in, of necessity be considered a coward? Why, in that case every man of the three months volunteers of 1861 who, after the battle of Bull Run, refused to continue his services for the war, would be a coward.

The simple question is, Was it the understanding that the regiment was to be sent to Washington? If it was, no man has a right to brand them as cowards for refusing to do what they had not agreed upon to do, and no General had a right to call them "G— d— Dutch cowards" for such refusal. He might have asked them to do, for their country's sake, what they were not obliged to do, and if he had done so, instead of upbraiding them in the coarsest and most vulgar manner, there is no doubt that all those who could be of any earthly use on the field, would have volunteered to stay; but in refusing to be coerced by sheer brutal Know-nothing impudence, they were right. Such, at least, is the opinion of one who is

NO MEMBER OF THE MILITIA.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL NEWS.

HALIFAX, Wednesday, June 11.

The steamship Africa, from Liverpool, on the 31st ult., via Queenstown, on the 1st inst., arrived off the harbor at 4 o'clock this morning, and was towed up to port, in consequence of having damaged her rudder in the ice off Cape Race. The damage will be repaired, and she will sail for Boston at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The Africa reached her dock at 6 A. M. Her dates are two days later than those already received. She has sixty-four passengers. No specie is reported.

The Nova Scotian arrived at Liverpool 30th.

The ship Sue had arrived off Queenstown for Glasgow, with a cargo of turpentine, having run the blockade off the coast of Georgia.

The steamship Australasian, from New-York, arrived at Queenstown on the 31st ult.

The French army at Rome was about to be reduced to a single division.

The English conservative party had collected all their force for the purpose of upsetting Lord PALMERSTON on the retrenchment question.

The British Government, at the request of the Atlantic Telegraph Company, had ordered two steamers to be got ready for the purpose of making a further survey on both sides of the Atlantic.

The United States Consul at Paris had issued a notice that no further application can be received from foreign officers for commissions in the Federal army.

The Turks are reported to have gained a great victory in Montenegro.

Baring's circular reports American Securities steady; Erie Shares, 33⅜; Illinois Centrals, 45⅛@44½ discount; United States Sixes, 85@86; ditto. Fives, 81@80⅜.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

The session of the Spanish Cortez has been extended on account of the Mexican question.

The Correspondencia contradicts the report that Gen. PRIM would be nominated Ambassador to Mexico.

The Paris Pays states that a note has been addressed to the English and Spanish Governments by the French Government, explaining the conduct of France, and declaring that France would consider herself released from the obligations of the conventions entered into if the allies treated directly with JUAREZ.

The Patrie asserts that Spain will concur diplomatically in bringing about a solution of the question.

Gen. PRIM will return to Europe.

Gen. SERRANO will be sent as Ambassador to Mexico.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Commons on the 29th of May, Mr. LINDSAY gave notice that he should call attention to the relations of England with the Federal and also the Confederate States of America on the 27th June.

Mr. LINDSAY also moved for a return of the number of iron-clad vessels already built, and of those building or in course of conversion in England.

Lord PALMERSTON stated that the Government had no intention to interfere in Affghanistan unless the Indian Territory was threatened with invasion.

The London Times again indulges in a warning editorial on the "financial crisis" which sooner or later must, it argues, occur in America—a crisis which overtakes every nation and every individual who believes in the creation of wealth from any other source than honest perseverance and labor.

In another article the Times reviews the report on the question of fortifications, and says that the Commissioners see no reason from the events in the American civil war to modify the views they took last year relative to the fortifications at Spithead.

The Times, in reviewing the latest evidence on the subject, is disposed to concur in the judgment of the Commissioners, and thinks that their conclusions are justified.

The New-York correspondent of the London Times under date of the 16th of May, considers Gen. HUNTER's proclamation as valuable to the Confederates as an army of half a million of men, and says it will make every man and boy in the South a soldier, and have a corresponding effect in Kentucky and the other Border States. There are probably 30,000 men in Gen. HALLECK's army who will either lay down their arms or go over to the Confederates if President LINCOLN should indorse the proclamation.

The Post considers the news from the Southwest as favorable to the Confederates, and says that Gen. BEAUREGARD continues to fortify his position at Corinth and receive reinforcements, whilst the silence of both the Federal Government and the Press is ominous. It is whispered that a large portion of Gen. HALLECK's army is laid prostrate by sickness. If so, the caution of the Federal Government is intelligible. Gen. HUNTER, when he was about it, might have declared the abolition of Slavery throughout the Southern Confederacy. The effect in both cases will be about the same. President LINCOLN must quash the manifesto of Gen. HUNTER, or in common consistency enfranchise the slaves of the other Southern States in which he has been enabled to gain a footing.

Thousands of emigrants have sailed from London for the purpose of founding a new non-conformist colony in New-Zealand, to be called Abertland.

FRANCE.

Report says that Capt. BONAPARTE PATTERSON, serving in the Mexican Expedition, is in high favor with the Emperor, and it is conjectured that he may prove a more acceptable candidate as King or President of the Mexicans than an Austrian Prince.

The United States Consul at Paris has issued a notice that no further applications can be received from foreign officers for commissions in the Federal army.

The Paris Bourse was heavy at 70f. 30c. for the Rentes.

ITALY.

The Government wishing to put an end to agitation, had decided that the proceedings of the Rifle Societies should be suspended in Lombardy.

GARIBALDI had arrived at Como. In reply to congratulations of the people, he made a conciliatory speech in reference to the different sections of Italy.

GERMANY.

The coasts of the Northern and Baltic seas are to be defended by forts at the mouths of the principal rivers. It has also been decided to build eight mailed steamers, after the American system, armed with three guns.

TURKEY.

According to an official dispatch, the Turkish troops have not only entered Montenegro, but defeated the Montenegrins, with great slaughter, and were preparing to prosecute their advance into the country.

INDIA.

Advices from Calcutta to the 10th, and from Bombay to the 12th of May, have been received. They report more business doing, and improving prices in imports. Exchange on London at Calcutta was at 2s. 3¼d., and at Bombay at 2s. 3½d. Higher prices were demanded for cotton.

The troubles in Affghanistan were about to be ended by a compromise.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

Mails from the Cape of Good Hope to the 21st of April hasn been received.

The ship Table Bay was nearly completed.

A bill limiting the rate of legal interest to six per cent. had been introduced in Parliament.

Trial by jury was to be established in British Kaffraria.

BRAZIL.

The Brazilian mails reached Lisbon on the 29th of May.

Rio Coffee was selling at 7@8⅛00. The stock was 180,000 bags.

NEWS FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

More Wounded Soldiers on the Way North—The Rebel Privateers—Return of Gen. Burnside to North Carolina, &c.

FORTRESS MONROE, Tuesday, June 10, via BALTIMORE, Wednesday, June 11.

The weather is very heavy and unusually severe for this season of the year. The rain-storm still continues.

The steamer Louisiana, with wounded soldiers, will sail for New-York as soon as the weather becomes favorable.

The privateers who have been on board the Massachusetts since the unsuccessful trip up the James River, were this morning transferred to the steamship Fulton.

The Fulton will take a lot of wounded to New-York as soon as the weather permits.

The steamship Belvidere run afoul of the British steamer Jason this forenoon. The Belvidere had one of her wheel-houses and part of her after upper works carried away. The Jason was not much damaged.

The gunboat Port Royal retured to Roanoke Island last night.

A grand Union demonstration by the citizens of Norfolk and Portsmouth will take place to-morrow. Gov. PIERPONT and other distinguished speakers are expected to be present.

OUR FORTRESS MONROE CORRESPONDENCE

THE WOUNDED FROM THE LATE BATTLE—MOVEMENTS OF GEN. BURNSIDE—A PERSONAL CONFERENCE WITH GEN. M'CLELLAN—CONTINUANCE OF STORMY WEATHER, ETC.

FORTRESS MONROE, Tuesday, June 10, 1862.

The wounded from near Richmond, whose names appear in the New-York papers of yesterday, are still here, on board the steamer Louisiana. The prevalence of the northeast storm renders it imprudent for that vessel to put to sea at present. She will go to New-York, and thence to Albany. The rain poured in floods last night, and up to 9 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning, and must have greatly swollen the streams at the westward, and rendered the earth very wet and unhealthy for the men to lie upon. Another and most important end may, however, be served by this flood of rain. It may so increase the volume of the James River as to permit the passage of our twenty gunboats which are waiting above City Point for more water, in order to pass the rebel obstructions.

Gen. BURNSIDE went up the York River yesterday, to hold a personal conference with Gen. MCCLELLAN.

The steamer Express will go up to White House to-day, carrying large supplies of ammunition. Officers and men are also hastening forward to join their respective regiments.

The condition of the 400 poor fellows whom I saw yesterday on board the Louisiana, though comparatively comfortable, satisfies me there is a great scarcity of surgical assistance for our wounded men. The few surgeons sent by the Sanitary Commission have gone forward. They are only a small installment of an army of good men and nurses required to save the lives and limbs of our brave soldiers.

The steamer Ellen S. Terry, with horses for BURNSIDE's Division, is weather-bound here. The Albany, bound to New-York, coaled yesterday, and will leave as soon as the weather moderates. At the present writing—10½ A. M.—there are signs of a clearing off, though the winds still stands in the stormy quarter—northeast.

The United States gunboat Stars and Stripes, Lieut. MCCOOK commanding, is here, and will soon sail for Wilmington, to take part in the capture of that place.

The storm interferes with the operations for saving the iron steamer Flushing. The Louisiana on Sunday ran afoul of her and damaged her light wood-work to the extent of a thousand dollars. Capts. NIMMO and SPENCE, with a provoking scarcity of means to work with, are doing everything in their power to raise and save the vessel. The hull and engines are not materially injured, and she will be saved as soon as mild weather sets in. E. S.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

OLD POINT, Tuesday, June 10, 1862.

Gen. BURNSIDE left us last evening, amid the acclamations of the crowds assembled on the wharf; he was accompanied to the vessel by Gen. DIX. The hero of Newbern never looked in better health or spirits. He was escorted hither, on board the Port Royal, by a detachment of the Eighty-ninth and of the Ninth New-York Volunteers, under Capt. J. R. WHITING, Jr., and Lieut. HERBERT, two of the most gentlemanly and gallant young officers in the service. The former is the only son of Judge J. R. WHITING, of New-York

I had a long and interesting conversation with both these gentlemen respecting the fights at Winton and Camden, in which they were engaged. Although these have long since become matters of the past, Capt. WHITING—with the laudable pride of an officer—still remembers some incorrect strictures that were at the time made in the Times upon his men. As an act of simple justice, I am bound to say that, from all I have personally gleaned, I am convinced that both officers and privates on those occasions did all that men could perform, and that a more devoted band does not exist than the Ninth New-York Volunteers.

By the way, I yesterday obtained some information respecting the capture of the Fanny by the rebels, some time in October last, and which, even at this late hour, requires a little ventilation. I was told by Quartermaster HART, of the Twentieth Indiana, who was captured on that occasion and imprisoned for three months, that when the Fanny was seized by the rebels, on her way to Chicamacomico, the Acting-Master on board the Fanny—MORRISON—deserted the vessel, upon the pretence of going ashore to get the aid of Col. Brown and the Twentieth Indiana. The vessel ran upon a bar, and was taken by the rebels. MORRISON asserts that the Zouaves refused to fight on that occasion; but this the latter indignantly deny, and say that MORRISON's desertion was the sole cause of that mishap. Gen. BURNSIDE, I understand, has this MORRISON still in some office of trust about him. If the allegations here made are based upon truth—and they bear every semblance of it—it may be worth Gen. BURNSIDE's while to investigate a matter which so seriously affects one in whom he is putting confidence.

The ninety privateersmen recently taken up to City Point under a flag of truce, were brought back last evening; as we were unable to effect an exchange of prisoners with Gen. HUGER.

I was glad to read that letter in your issue of the 9th, signed "Vindex," and defending Gen. CASEY from the abuse which has been so unjustly heaped upon him in various quarters, owing to his last disastrous engagement. All with whom I have conversed—many of them eye-witnesses of what they told me—agree substantially in the truth of all that "Vindex" has asserted in favor of a very brave and worthy commander. Indeed, I may say that your correspondent has completely forestalled what I intended to tell you. Every one will join in your correspondent's wish that when all the facts are brought to light, Gen. MCCLELLAN's "just and noble nature will prompt him, as at Williamsburgh, to do honor where honor is due."

Nothing new from the army before Richmond, up to the time of closing mail, but important tidings hourly expected. The Nelly Baker is just in from White House, with three prisoners and three or four sick of our men. All quiet up to her leaving.

Naval News.

The Brooklyn Navy-yard presents to-day an aspect of bustle and activity hardly surpassed, if it is equaled, by any naval dépôt in the world. On entering the premises the Marine Garrison, the Reservoir Building, the Naval Lyceum, the Roll-caller's Office, and the Drill Ground, are seen to swarm with human beings; piles of shot and shell, cannon of every shape and pattern, and gun-carriages of all conceivable designs, make the Ordnance Department look like the rendezvous of all naval artillery. The ship-houses and constructing departments, notwithstanding the "iron-clad" mania, are still well studded with hugh spars and other materials for wooden walls. Even the riggers find plenty of work to do, and the sail-makers have put more canvas through their hands within the last six months, than would make a vast awning for the whole Navy-yard. In the stream there is a perfect fleet of vessels, from the tiny yacht to the burly seventy-four. The following is a brief account of the chief men-of-war in the hands of the operators:

The iron-clad steam-frigate Roanoke is in the dry dock. The port side of her hull is plated with iron plates 2 feet wide by 4 inches thick, and every effort is being made to have her finished by the 1st of August. Both machinists and carpenters are crowded on her as thickly as they can get, and expect to make her a complete success. It is almost unnecessary to say that the Roanoke monopolizes nearly all the curiosity-seeking visitors to the Navy-yard.

The new steam corvette Adirondack, already reported fit for commission, took her guns on board yesterday. They constitute, probably, the most formidable armament ever put on board a sloop-of-war, in this or any other country, but the rules of the Navy Department prevents us from describing its details. A list of the officers reported for her have been given, her ship's company will consist of about 250 seamen, and a guard of marines. She will be likely to go into commission next week.

The other new vessels, Lackawanna and Ticonderoga, are pushing ahead as rapidly as possible in the ship-houses. The riggers and sail-makers are working for them. Their masts will soon be cut out. The ordnance authorities are getting up their guns and ammunition, but the Ticonderoga cannot be even ready for launching before the expiration of some months.

The sailing-frigate Sabine, sailing sloop-of-war Savannah, the receiving-ship North Carolina, the store-ships Relief and Supply, are the remaining vessels of the regular navy now off the Yard. The purchased vessels are: Steamers Mohawk, Huntsville, Penguin and Magnolia.

The officers of the Navy-yard not having been published for over a year, we give them below:

Commodore, HIRAM PAULDING; Commander, Wm. Radford; Lieut., T. S. Fillebrown; Chief Engineer, R. F. Garvin; Purser, John D. Gibson, in charge of the Bureau of Clothing, &c., at the Yard; Purser, A. A. Belknap; Surgeon, Lewis J. Williams; Lieut., Wm. G. Temple, in command of the Ordnance Department; Master, Wm. M. Brady; Gunner, M. Lane; Carpenter, F. M. Cecil; Boatswain, C. Johnston; Sailmaker, D. C. Brayton; Masters' Mates, C. Fisher and S. Morehouse.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Opera, with a soprano new to the City, GOTTSCHALK, with some of his most attractive compositions for the piano, and HERRMANN, with his diablerie to wind up the evening, all at one-half the lowest price for which we have ordinarily had opera alone, of late years, naturally produced last night one of the most crowded audiences we have lately had at the Academy. Indeed, the début of Madame COMTE BORCHARD would alone have insured this result, and as we have heard GOTTSCHALK play, and expressed our opinion respecting him many times previously, in the most favorable of manners, while we have puzzled our brains over the psychomanthy or prestidigitation of HERRMANN at least twice as often, we shall in the present case confine our remarks to the appearance of Madame BORCHARD and DONIZETTI's "Lucretia Borgia." It has been, for some reason or other, so long since this opera has been given at the Academy, that we consider it an excellent choice for the first appearance of a new vocalist, while the company was not only as good as could be collected at present in the States, but was undeniably one of the best with which, during the last few years, we have had "Lucretia Borgia" given in New-York. Setting aside the débutante of the evening as Lucretia, we had the Orsini of D'ANGRI, the finest we have ever heard on this side of the Atlantic. BRIGNOLI as Gennaro, and the Duke by SUSINI, who, although scarcely so fine in voice as he was on his first arrival here, is indisputably always an available artist. It is true that we have had these artists together before during the present season. Generally, however, they have appeared in operas requiring a larger operatic staff; consequently, their excellence was less positively felt. Signor ARELLA conducted the orchestra, which was led by THOMAS. It was consequently better and more thoroughly drilled to attend to his management of them. The chorus was possibly somewhat weak, but no more so than it has ordinarily been during the last two years. Under these circumstances, it was evident that if the soprano responded to the expectations we had been led to form of her, the opera would at any rate be more than satisfactorily given. Mme. BORCHARD proved to be an excellent vocalist. If not the very best Lucretia we have had here, she was, at all events, an excellent one. Her voice is not perhaps in its first youth, and may lack something in freshness, which is made amends for by the finish of her vocalization. At the same time, her style is different from that which we have generally been accustomed to, and is more French than Italian,—or to speak clearly, displays sentiment rather than passion, even in the strongest and most pronounced portions of her vocalism. At first, she appeared somewhat embarrassed; but this soon wore off, and she made a veritable success. Her ornament is remarkably appropriate, a somewhat rare qualification in her school of singing, which is generally too much given to embroidery. In the second act, in the duet with her husband—represented by SUSINI—she displayed much energy in conjunction with her finish and precision of style. SUSINI was also in better voice than he has recently been, and both artists deserved more applause than they received from one of the most crowded, but certainly the coldest audiences we have had the pleasure of forming a part of during the last dozen of brief seasons. BRIGNOLI sang well—possibly the character was a comparative novelty—possibly he wished to demonstrate that the recent want of success he has proved as a concert manager had no effect upon him. The "Brindisi" of D'ANGRI was of course one of the principal points of the evening, and was actually warmly applauded into an encore. It would be needless for us to dwell at greater length upon the performance, save to say that the management had the common sense not to give too much GOTTSCHALK and HERRMANN, thus permitting it to leave the house before 11½ o'clock.

This evening, on the second night of the season, FLOTOW's "Martha" will be given, with Miss KELLOGG, Mme. D'ANGRI, BRIGNOLI and SUSINI in the cast.

THE TURF.

Great Double-Team Trot on the Fashion Course.

Yesterday the great double-team trotting match for $1,000, mile heats and repeat, to wagon, came off on the Fashion Course, Long Island. The teams belong to two of our leading citizens, are well known on the road, and the match was to decide the question of their relative superiority of speed. The day was fine, but the track, owing to the heavy rains of the preceding day, was not in good condition for making fast time. The attendance was numerous and highly respectable,—many of our leading merchants and civic functionaries being present.

HIRAM WOODRUFF and SAM MCLAUGHLIN were the drivers; the former holding the reins over Lady Snow and the Ice Pony, two well-matched bays, while the latter had the black horse Mink and the bay mare Kate. HIRAM's team had been the favorites in the betting in the City before the day of the race, and up to the hour of starting were in great force; the odds of $100 to $60 being freely offered, and as freely taken by the friends of the owner of Kate and Mink. Indeed, in some instances, even money was bet after the first two or three unsuccessful attempts to score. MCLAUGHLIN had the inside track, and at the usual hour the Judges called up the horses for

THE FIRST HEAT.

Some half-dozen attempts at scoring ensued before the judges gave the word "Go." Just before reaching the quarter-pole (in 44½ seconds) SAM's team broke, and gave HIRAM the lead. At the old stand the latter was a clear length ahead, but SAM now began to close the gap, and when they passed the half-mile pole, in 1 minute 24 seconds, SAM was at his quarters. On the third quarter both broke badly, but SAM was the quicker in getting his hores steady to work, and this enabled him to shoot ahead. Up the home stretch HIRAM closed fast on his opponent, but was not able to get quite up, and was beaten by a length in 2:49.

THE SECOND HEAT.

A wonderful alteration was now witnessed in the betting. Those parties who had laid the odds against SAM MCLAUGHLIN now attempted to save themselves by betting against HIRAM's team, and $100 to $25 was currently offered. Some lively betting ensued, a good deal of money being invested at the above rate. The start was an excellent one, both teams crossing the score head and head together. Half way to the quarter-pole, HIRAM shot ahead and took the inside track, improving his lead every stride, that at the quarter (in 40 seconds) he was three lengths first. Passing the old stand, HIRAM broke, and SAM was gaining rapidly when his own horses went up, and a repetition of this occurring on the third, and again on the last quarter, allowed HIRAM to cross the score amid loud cheering, six lengths in advance, in 2:42.

THIRD HEAT.

Again there was a rapid and curious change in the money market witnessed, in consequence of the result of the last heat. There had been a good deal of "time" betting on the heats, and the great difference in the records of the first and second heats surprised every one. HIRAM's team now became the favorites, and $100 to $35 was bet upon their winning the match. A good start, and both teams broke. The quarter was reached with both teams close together in 41 seconds, but just at this juncture SAM went up. This enabled HIRAM to go ahead with a lead of three lengths, past the old stand. At the half mile, SAM broke badly again, and his team run some distance in the third quarter. From this point the race was over, for although he closed rapidly at the last turn, a repetition of the break on the homestretch deprived him of any chance of success, and he was beaten by twenty lengths in 2:41.

Immediately after the race the losing team, Kate and Mink, pursuant to announcement, were put up for sale by auction. They were purchased by Mr. GEO. ALLEN for $1,700; but we understand they do not change hands.

The Great Handicap Trot To-day.

This great sporting event, the most important of any of the season, comes off on the Fashion Course this day. It is the first time that the principal of handicapping, or the art of equalizing the speed of various horses by the apportionment of different amounts of weight to be carried in the race, has been applied to trotting. It will prove a most exciting affair, as the horses engaged are all of very high class. Panic and Widow Machree, having shown the fastest trotting time in public, are each handicapped to carry a wagon and driver weighing 270 pounds; Gen. McClellan has to carry 250 pounds; Gen. Butler, 240 pounds, and West Philadelphia, 230 pounds.

The Widow is said to be amiss and her starting doubtful, but all the others are certain to go. The prize is a purse of $500 given by the Association; the second horse receiving $100. The race is certain to come off, unless the day prove very stormy. The new stand will be devoted solely to ladies and private parties. DODWORTH's celebrated band will also be in attendance to enliven the intervals between the heats.

We understand, also, that Commodore VANDERBILT's famous team, Postboy and Ploughboy, will also show their speed in the hands of that able double-team driver SAM MCLAUGHLIN. Should Mr. BONNER bring out his unrivaled mares also, the interest will be vastly increased.

An Inside View from New-Orleans.

THE UNION SENTIMENT—ITS DEVELOPMENT—SMUGGLING AWAY REINFORCEMENTS TO BEAUREGARD'S ARMY.

We are allowed to publish the following extract from a letter from a lady—the wife of a highly respected gentleman of New-Orleans—to a friend in this City:

NEW-ORLEANS, May 11, 1862.

* * * * * * *

—We have never suffered for bread (nor, indeed, any of the good things of life), as thousands of our poor have done; and as for the final termination of affairs—I felt confident that the "Yankees" would be here in the Spring, and my hopes for the present have relied on them, as my hopes for the future do on the Bible. God bless the old flag! She proudly floats once more over our poor deluded, our almost lost city, and we begin to breathe the delicious air of liberty that can be breathed nowhere else in the world save under the broad banner of the Union.

During the entire Winter we have not been able to give expression to our true sentiments with regard to the condition of the country, but we have been blessed in our own family, and immediate circle of friends, by the presence of a spirit of love for our old country and its institutions, which has only become intensified by the bitter hatred shown by those around, who would give liberty its death-blow. Now, the time is fast approaching when we shall no longer be obliged to speak or act a lie; day by day the Unionists gain favor with the people of New-Orleans, especially the poorer classes, because they see the prospect of peace and plenty as of old, while now they are actually starving; but, of course, there are many who still cherish the most bitter feelings in their hearts. I heard yesterday that hundreds have enlisted in the United States service, and also that several hundred have been smuggled from the city at night to join BEAUREGARD's army. If Gen. BUTLER does not know it, I wish it could be brought to his knowledge in some way, that it might be stopped.

We have had the coolest Spring I have ever known in New-Orleans. I trust it is providential for the thousands of poor soldiers who throng our streets, all unused to our broiling tropical sun, and that it will continue cool. Above all, I pray no yellow fever may be allowed to devastate our city, that these poor fellows, who have given up their comfortable Northern homes to maintain the honor of their country's flag, may not be obliged, after braving all the dangers of the battle-field, to succumb before sickness and disease.
